

Beware of Trick-Filled Treats

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Parents, police and civic groups are on the alert today for vicious Halloween tricks on youngsters—such as poisoned candy and apples spiked with razor blades—which were found in many areas last year.

As the first reports of such incidents this year came in, police warned: Don't let children eat any Halloween treat without taking a good look at it first.

In Phoenix, Ariz., police and narcotics agents said there also is a danger that treats might be spiked with drugs.

They issued repeated warnings to parents not to let children eat candy unless enclosed in the original factory wrapping. The officers said fears of drugs were sparked by reports that large amounts of Seconal tablets were circulating in the Phoenix area.

Police warnings were accompanied by newspaper advertisements in Syracuse, N.Y., and Indianapolis, Ind.

To combat both the menace to trick-or-treating children—and the possible problem of vandalism by some of them—hundreds of Jaycee members in Memphis, Tenn., planned to take to the streets tonight in a mass "safety patrol."

They will have no police power, but, were equipping their cars with two-way radio systems to call police if necessary.

In Waukegan, Ill., Friday night, a child bit on a Halloween treat and found a razor blade. Donald Crossman, 9, told his mother after 3½ hours of trick-or-treating: "There's something in this candy bar."

Opening it, Mrs. Mary Ann Crossman, 31, found the broken, double-edged safety razor blade. Her son was unhurt. The blade stuck between his teeth.

Buffalo, N.Y., police also reported a similar incident when an unidentified child's mother accidentally dropped a Halloween apple, which broke open to reveal a razor blade.

Antiwar Rallies; Patriotic Parades

Demonstrations Precede Elections

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Antiwar rallies, parades and speeches were planned in dozens of American cities today in what was billed "a massive demonstration for peace" on the eve of the Nov. 3 elections.

In contrast, President Nixon will be honored in Salt Lake City tonight with a "candlelight patriotic parade" which sponsors say is expected to draw several thousand persons. Nixon will be in Utah on a campaign swing for Republican Senate candidates.

Units from veterans' groups, labor organizations and school children will march in the Salt Lake City parade, sponsors said, with state Atty. Gen. Vernon Romney as parade marshal.

The antiwar demonstrators early today and a parade through downtown Tampa was scheduled later in the day.

The police armed with rifles and shotguns arrested some 30 of the youths and routed about 200 more when they failed to obey a 2 a.m. curfew and leave a football field where the Friday night rally was held.

In Chicago, the sponsoring Oct. 31st Peace Action Committee said up to 25,000 persons were expected to march through the downtown area to attend an antiwar rally in Grant Park.

Kent State

Jerry Gordon, a Cleveland attorney and coordinator of the National Peace Action Coalition which called the demonstrations, said other protests throughout the nation would be linked to a recent grand jury indictment of students at Kent State University.

"We feel that Nixon is trying to throttle the student movement," he said, "to turn them into vegetables and to sterilize the campuses."

The student indictments were returned by a Portage County, Ohio, grand jury in connection with disorders which led to a confrontation with National Guardsmen in which four students were killed and nine wounded.

Smear Campaign

Gordon criticized Nixon's campaigning for Republican candidates as a "last-minute smear and fear campaign" which he said was designed to avert voters from "the real issues and problems that confront them."

In New York, the Peace Action Coalition scheduled a lunch-hour parade down Seventh Avenue from Columbus Circle to Bryant Park for a rally.

Similar afternoon marches and rallies were planned in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Seattle, Portland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Columbus Ohio, and Atlanta.

In El Paso, Tex., scheduled speakers in a rally at the University of Texas branch included Rennie Davis, a defendant in the Chicago 7 riot trial. Sponsors said another 10,000 demonstrators were expected at a rally at the state Capitol in Austin, although police predicted the number would be much smaller.

Sexual Politics

Kate Millett, feminist and author of "Sexual Politics," was on the list of speakers for a rally at Independence Mall in Philadelphia, along with Steward Meacham, former director of the American Friends Service Committee, and Jan Crumb, founder of "Vietnam Veterans Against the War."

A scheduled rally in Trenton, N.J., was canceled Friday because of recent racial turmoil in that city following implementation of a school busing plan.

In Waterloo, Iowa, permission to use Exchange Park for a two-hour rally was held up until organizers posted a $500 bond to cover the cost of any damage.

Spokesmen for the Los Angeles Oct. 31 Out Now Committee said they expected several thousand persons and no violence at their rally.

Reasoning Varies

Extend Cease-Fire in Middle East, 3 Agree

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — Egypt, France and the Soviet Union agree that the Middle East cease-fire should be extended and that Arab-Israeli peace talks should resume. But they disagree with the way the United States wants to accomplish these goals.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik told the U.N. General Assembly Thursday night that the United States was putting the cart before the horse in calling for a "restoration of confidence" between the Arabs and Israelis before the talks resume.

Malik said the way to restore confidence between the two sides is to carry out the provisions of the 1967 Security Council resolution that called for peace talks and set broad terms for a Middle East peace settlement.

He said the peace negotiations that began Aug. 25 under the leadership of U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring should resume at once. He added that he supports an indefinite extension of the current Middle East cease-fire, scheduled to expire Nov. 5.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost made the plea for a restoration of confidence in a General Assembly address Thursday.

His speech was clearly an attack on Egypt's alleged movement of Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles into the Suez Canal zone.

90-Day Truce

Israel walked out of Jarring's peace talks almost as soon as they began, charging that the installation of the missiles was a violation of the 90-day truce agreed to before the negotiations began.

Malik told the assembly: "Perhaps the Arabs should disarm altogether to win the confidence of the aggressor; then maybe Israel would be good enough to resume contact with Jarring."

Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed Hassan El Zayyat also criticized Yost's speech and told the assembly, "There is no confidence between occupied and aggressor, between two countries at war."

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower, in a rare foray into political campaigning, endorsed Raymond Bricker, the GOP candidate for governor of Pennsylvania Friday. She said she and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, the wife of her grandson, will vote for him next Tuesday.

She and Julie sat on either side of Bricker at a news conference before campaigning through the southeastern and anthracite regions of Pennsylvania.

Bricker opposes Democrat Milton Shapp in Tuesday's election.

Special Interest Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three members of the House Agriculture Committee, including its chairman, have accepted $13,000 from a well-endowed political fund supported by dairy farmers.

All three congressmen are unopposed in Tuesday's general election and faced no opposition in the primaries.

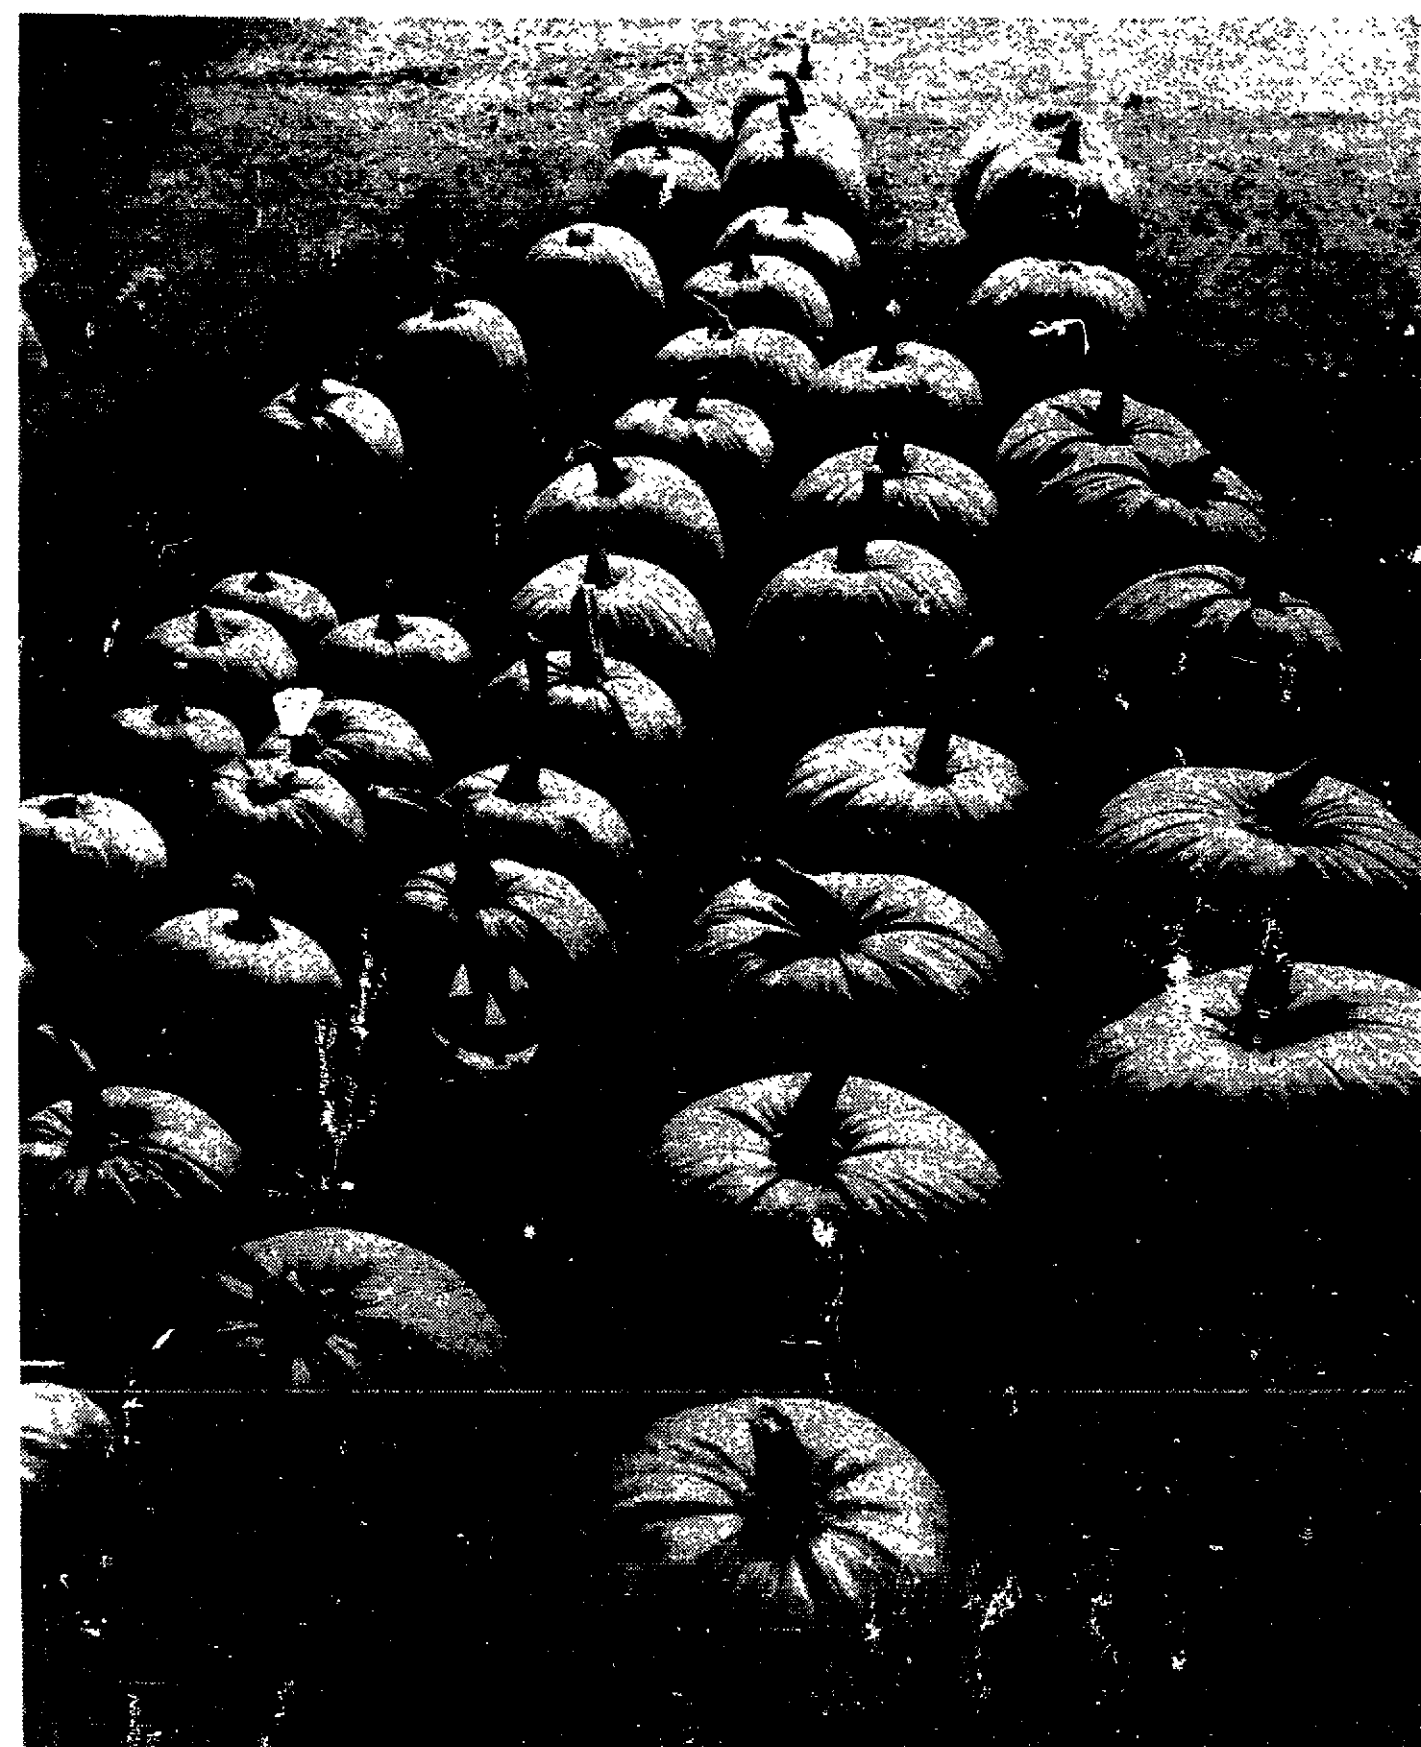

They are the committee chairman, Rep. W.R. Bob Poage, D-Tex., a 34-year veteran of Congress, and Rep. Edward Jones, D-Tenn., and Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., both freshmen.

The money comes from the report filed with Congress, said the money was deposited in a special campaign bank account set up by key officials of the Associated Milk Producers Inc.

Dairy farmers, who donated the $400,000 now in the fund, will be used in future election contests.

Last year the fund also gave the 70-year-old central Texas lawyer $6,700 at a testimonial dinner. Another $4,700 was chipped in during a joint affair last winter for Poage and Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex.

Heavy Government Layoffs Expected After Elections

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Service Commission, detecting signals of massive layoffs in federal employment, is looking for ways to help thousands of government workers find new jobs when the storm hits sometime after next Tuesday's election.

A memo prepared by Edward A. Dunton, the commission's director of recruiting and examining, warns that cutbacks among civilian employees of the Defense Department, in particular, "will be much larger than now generally known."

He said announcements of the heavy layoffs "will wait until after the elections—and probably until after the Christmas holidays."

Pentagon spokesmen said Dunton's findings refer to a two-year program of cutbacks begun at the start of fiscal 1970 and due for completion by next June 30.

They said the publicly announced goal is a reduction in civilian manpower of about 120,000, but admitted "a good bit is yet to come" in the final six months.

The Dunton memo indicated 55,000 to 80,000 layoffs are yet to come in the Navy and Air Force alone.

"Army officials said they could not discuss estimates," he reported.

Nicholas J. Oganovic, executive director of the Civil Service Commission, refused to release the Dunton memo but he confirmed, in an interview, published reports of its contents.

Good Guesses

He said, however, the memo's estimates were only "good guesses" drawn from "scuttlebutt," picked up by the commission's 65 regional offices among the federal agencies they serve.

Saigon Ruling

'Tiger Cage' Reporter

Refused Credentials

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese Information Ministry has refused to renew the press accreditation of an American correspondent because he took two U.S. congressmen to a detention camp for political prisoners.

Don Luce, 36, led Reps. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., and William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., on an inspection of the so-called "tiger cages" at Con Son Island political prison last July. Reports of conditions in the cages sparked an international controversy.

Luce's government accreditation as correspondent for a religious news service expired Oct. 19, and the national press center said today that it had refused to renew it.

"We are unable to reaccredit Mr. Luce," said Nguyen Ngoc Huyen, director of the press center. "Recently he went to Con Son Island. As you know, Con Son is a restricted area. He went without government permission and he wrote articles as a correspondent."

Luce, who has spent a decade in Vietnam and speaks fluent Vietnamese, is a staff member of the World Council of Churches. He has done research on postwar reconstruction and writes for the council's Ecumenical News Service. He is coauthor of a book, "Vietnam: The Unheard Voices."

throughout the nation.

Oganovic said a variety of factors could soften or worsen the impact of the expected cutbacks.

"A lot of this will be handled by attrition," he said—that is, by failing to replace people who quit or retire.

"If congress approves programs and money," he continued, "a lot of these people will be absorbed in new programs."

"Right now agencies are cooperating. But they don't know what their appropriations will be."

On the other hand, he said,

"If the economy stays as it is, or gets worse, we are going to have a tougher time... a lot will be determined by what happens in the Middle East and Vietnam."

Steeper Takeoffs, Landings Asked For Jet Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration acting in behalf of what it called passenger safety and noise abatement, says it will require jet aircraft to take off and land more steeply than in the past.

The FAA said the move not only will increase the safety of passengers by keeping the jets away from altitudes used by smaller and slower aircraft but also will cut down on the noise level at airports.

The new rules require jet planes generally to stay above 10,000 feet until they are within 30 miles of the airport. The planes must remain 5,000 or more feet above the ground until they reach the final turn into the descent area.

"Arriving aircraft will be descended as steeply as passenger comfort permits," said FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer.

"This keep-em-high procedure will reduce the exposure between the higher performance turbojets and the smaller, slower aircraft that usually fly at lower altitudes," he said.

The new rules already are in effect at some airports and will be the standard at all 119 airports having terminal radar control service by next Feb. 1.

Sex Second to Religion

In Parade of Thoughts

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A psychologist says most people thinking about in the previous week about religion twice as many times a day as they think about sex.

Young adults, those 18 to 25, think about sex at least once in any 10-minute period; middle-aged people at least every 35 minutes; and people over 65 once an hour.

Young adults think about religion once every 25 minutes; middle-aged groups about once every 15 minutes; and people over 65 once every 10 minutes.

Cameron said the study failed to substantiate a popular notion that "young people nowadays are thinking more about world and social problems than their parents are or ever did."

He added he had no way of determining whether adults meditated about social problems as often when they were young as their children do now.

Cameron also discovered that the middle-aged appear to think about their pets as often as they think about sex, a state of mind which "indicates a phony, strange, inhuman and time-consuming relationship with household animals."

He said housewives apparently spend 30 per cent of their time thinking about household work while working women devote 10 per cent of their office time to the same subject.

"Perhaps this explains why women are so much duller than men," he added.

He made the survey on his own "just because it's interesting to know what people think about."

Packers Nitschke Has High Regard for 49ers Willard, Brodie

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

PAILO ALTO, Calif. — The 49ers' charge to the front of the National League's Western Division race has been largely attributed to the gunnery and generalship of John Brodie, their bomb throwing quarterback.

Although there have been other significant factors, there can be little quarrel with this conclusion.

But if Brodie has been the key figure to the Prospectors' success, he in turn owes a good part of his early fortune to one of his backfield colleagues, full-back Ken Willard.

Willard, who is likely to complicate matters for the Packers defense in San Francisco Sunday afternoon, effectively complements the 49ers' field general's talents.

Ray Nitschke, the Packers' venerable middle linebacker, has discovered just how effectively tively while studying films of the San Franciscans' most recent ventures.

Ray Nitschke

Willard's big play is the draw. Nitschke informed, and the draw is an important part of the 49er attack because a lot of Brodie's play action passes come off big draws.

Because of the draw fake, and because you have to respect Willard's running it takes away from the pass rush. "They run screens to the backs real well, too."

Nitschke, who professes profound respect for the 49er line buster, says, "Willard is one of the tough fullbacks of the league. He's big (6-foot-4 and 225 pounds), strong and has a lot of experience. He also is a good receiver, picks up blitzes real well as a pass protector and runs the power, handoff type plays effectively as well as the draw."

"Willard is very similar to Bill Brown of the Vikings," except that Willard is a little bigger, they both do everything well. Brodie also uses Willard to best advantage in his play selection."

Travis Williams

There is no great dropoff, Nitschke added, when Willard is not in the game.

"Jim Thomas, the guy who replaces him, is pretty good, too," Ray said. "He has good speed and runs the sweep real well plus being a good pass receiver."

Good Execution

Impressed with the 49ers' attack as a whole the Packers' Bald Eagle says, "They have everything you want in an offense, a strong passing attack and a good running game ...

it's that basic an attack, but they have the people who can execute it.

"Brodie has only been caught three times in six games which is, excellent. The big secret, more than the protection, is that he gets rid of the ball."

Ken Willard

Brodie is quick to see when he is getting a big pass rush and gets rid of the ball ... he's had a hot hand, too, of course.

"Also, in the games we've seen, he's been field position conscious. He adjusts well and takes advantage of wherever he is on the field."

Nitschke then made a final point, one which might be even more significant than those advanced earlier.

"Brodie is not throwing the ball into a crowd as much as he used to," the Packers' 13-year veteran said. "He's been very accurate."

Green Bay Premontre overpowered Appleton Xavier, 25-0, Friday night at Goodland Field to solidify the belief that this is the "Year of the Cadet" in Wisconsin high school football.

The No. 1-ranked Cadets ended nearly a decade of frustration against their greatest tormentors with a blend of awesome defensive play and operations. It was Premontre's first success after nine straight losses to Xavier, in a Fox Valley Catholic Conference series that began in 1961.

Quarterback Rick Lemerond, who completed eight of 14 passes for 146 yards, threw scoring strikes of 41 and five yards to Mike Hudak and Terry Young, respectively. Dave Brunette and Jim Johnson added touchdowns on respective runs of five and four yards.

Tigers Top Kiel for 9-0 Campaign

Chilton Finishes Unbeaten

KIEL — Chilton put the first two touchdowns on the board, and then settled back to grind out a tough 13-6 decision over Kiel in the Packerland Conference's Southern division showdown battle here Friday.

The Tigers, ranked fourth among the state's large schools, posted their 21st consecutive victory, and closed their season at 4-0 in the conference and 9-0 overall. Kiel showed respectable marks of 3-1 and 7-2.

It was also the second consecutive season the Neil Nelson-coached Tigers came through without a loss. Chilton was undefeated and unscored upon in 1969 en route to an 8-0 campaign.

Ken Schommer put the visitors up 6-0 on a 2-yard quarterback sneak early in the second quarter. The Tigers marched 77 yards in nine plays for the score, with the key play coming on a 28-yard pass from Schommer to Dexter Sattler. Tom McMunn's kick was wide.

Chilton used one of Kiel's seven turnovers to set up its second TD, as McMunn recovered a fumble at the Kiel 21. On the fifth play of the short drive, Schommer hit Mike Weller with a 9-yard pass for the score. This time McMunn's kick was good, as the count rose to 13-0.

Long Kickoff Return

Kiel's lone score came on the very next play, when Allan Sabel returned the kickoff 89 yards, kicked two extra points and a 6-5, 290-pound senior, helped the top-ranked Cadets score a 25-0 win over Xavier—Premontre's first victory over the Appleton school after nine consecutive losses. (Post-Crescent Photo by Bob Tews)

Former Badger Shows Versatility

McCauley Sparks Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — Tom McCauley of the Atlanta Falcons can't be placed in a net category.

"He's a free safety, a wide receiver, a punt and missed field goal return specialist, among other things."

This week, Tom McCauley leads the National Football Conference in punt returns with a 164-yard average. His 77-yard return for a touchdown in last Sunday's 32-14 Atlanta victory over New Orleans pushed him to the top.

"When McCauley scored, it inspired our team," said Coach Norm Van Brocklin. "It gave us the lift we needed."

McCauley, a sharp-featured 23-year-old former University of Wisconsin star, has been many things since he was drafted in the 10th round by the Minnesota Vikings in 1969. The Vikings, after trying him as a receiver

Monroe, Unsed Bullet Aces

By The Associated Press
Artful Earl Monroe and wonderful Wes Unseld helped bring Baltimore back from a 14-point deficit in the third quarter to guide the Bullets to a 123-112 decision over the Philadelphia 76ers in NBA action Friday night.

Monroe scored 30 points and Unseld 27 to upstage a 24-point game by the 76ers' Archie Clark.

In other NBA tilts, Los Angeles breezed by Buffalo, 104-90; Chicago edged San Francisco, 101-98; and Seattle topped Portland, 115-104.

The only ABA contest saw newly-acquired Joe Caldwell score 22 points for the Carolina Cougars in a 104-98 loss to the Virginia Squires. Caldwell abandoned the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA Friday for a six-figure Cougar contract.

Caldwell Jumps to ABA

Signing Jeopardizes Pro Basketball Merger

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The winless Carolina Cougars, unable to stir any excitement in the American Basketball Association, have set off plenty of fireworks with the signing of veteran Joe Caldwell of the Atlanta Hawks of the rival National Basketball Association.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said, "Such action on the part of Carolina hardly enhances the possibility of a merger."

The ABA and the NBA have agreed in principle to a possible merger, providing Congress approves.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph, who attended the Carolina-Virginia game, said, "It is up to each individual club to strengthen itself in any way possible."

"As for the contract being legal, let me explain that in the ABA system I have 10 days to reject a contract. But I see no reason to reject this one."

22-Point Effort
Caldwell scored 22 points in his first game with Carolina Friday night but the Virginia Squires handed the Cougars their seventh loss, 104-98.

The 6-foot-5 Caldwell, a holdout with the Hawks, signed with the Cougars just hours before the game. Cougar Manager Carl Scheer refused to disclose Caldwell's salary but he said the former Arizona State star got the "best contract in basketball."

"We don't have anything to say about it at this time except that we are very much surprised that Joe has taken this course," said Bob Cousins, the Hawks' president. "We had a meeting scheduled for Saturday with Joe's representative to further discuss negotiations."

"We will check what legal courses are open to us and have more to say later."

There were some indications that the Hawks could take court action seeking an injunction prohibiting Caldwell from appearing in any additional ABA games this year. The Atlanta club took such action a year ago when veteran center Zelmo Beaty jumped his contract.

stock of the personnel situation as Sunday's struggle grew close, ruled out Travis Williams as a possible participant because of a sprained ankle.

"Travis is definitely out," he said, adding "you could almost say the same of Ken Bowman. He's also doubtful with that bad shoulder. I doubt if he'll even suit up."

Bengtson said, "it probably will be Jim Grabowski at fullback" in place of the Road Runner. Grabowski, who started the Pack's unhappy opener against the Detroit Lions, has carried the ball only four times to date.

Perry Williams Ready
Perry Williams, now fully recovered from a knee injury, also is available at fullback if needed.

Forest Gregg was called home Friday morning because of illness in his family . . . he's expected to return in time for Sunday's game, however.

Gregg's presence could be critical, considering that now he is the Packers' third guard.

With the injured Dave Bradley on the taxi squad, the only other healthy starters available are Bill Lueck and Gail Gillingham.

Cornerback Bob Jeter also missed the day's practice because of an unscheduled dental appointment. He had an impacted wisdom tooth extracted while his teammates were toiling in Stanford University's practice field.

Including Jeter's absence and that of Gregg, Bengtson dryly observed, "there's never a dull moment."

Veteran actor Scott Brady was among Friday's numerous rail-birds . . . An ardent Notre Dame football fan, Brady chatted with the Pack's former Irish stars Mike McCoy and Kevin Hardy, at length.

Set For Due!
Forty-Niner guard Woody Peoples reportedly cannot wait to knock heads with former teammate Hardy, who will be starting at left defensive tackle for the Pack.

"I know he'll be going all out trying to beat us," the usually quiet Peoples said. "I just want him to know that I'll be going all out, too."

years, the victory was No. 9 in succession. The Cadets next head into the WISAA playoffs. Xavier ended its season with a 4-1 mark, overall.

Several thousand spectators at Goodland Field, and more thousands of TV viewers, watched the Hawks battle the highly-favored Cadets to a scoreless deadlock in the first quarter . . . and there were indications that Xavier's renowned mastery might continue.

But Prementre's power couldn't remain harnessed for long. Early in the second period, the Cadets put together a 60-yard scoring drive (actually 79 because they had to overcome a major penalty) in eight plays. The key advances were gains of 15 and 30 yards by the hard-running Hudak.

Brumette, a perfect running mate for Hudak (Dave totaled 70 yards for the night, while Mike had 74) crashed the field for the final five yards. The Cadets failed on a 2-point PAT run. The PAT play was about the only thing that the Cadets were less than impressive with all night.

After an Xavier punt was returned to the Hawk 41 late in the second period, the Cadets struck again quickly. Lemerond threw a perfect pass to Hudak on the Xavier 18, and the FVCC scoring champion ran the rest of the way, breaking a tackle en route. Lemerond kicked the extra point.

With only 1:25 left in the half, the Hawks' aerial game accounted for 44 yards in three plays, but the hosts were unable to take the ball in.

Both Cadet touchdowns in the second half came after self-made breaks. Gerry Wied blocked a punt, with the ball being scrimmaged from the Xavier 48 and ran it back to the 11. Four plays later, Lemerond found the 6-foot-7 Young all alone in the end zone and delivered the ball to him.

Tom Fritsch intercepted a Xavier pass and returned to the Hawk 27. Five plays were needed to cover the remaining distance, with Johnson driving in from the 4.

Cyclone Harriers Finish Fourth In State Test

SHEBOYGAN — The UWGB Fox Valley Campus Cyclones finished fourth in a field of 11 with a score of 81 in the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference State cross country meet held in Sheboygan Friday.

The UW-Waukesha Campus took first place in the meet with a score of 31. It was followed by UW-Marathon with 39, UW-Baraboo with 69, UWGB-Fox Valley, WSU-Richland Center with 83, WSU-Fond du Lac with 87, UW-Sheboygan with 91, UW-Marshfield with 119, UW-Rock County with 160, WSU-Barron County with 168, and UW-Washington with 174.

Gary Stark, eighth in the state in high school competition last year, captured first place in the meet with a time of 17:10 on the three-mile trail to set a new course record. Sheboygan's Eric Hasenstein took second place. Dave Thompson of UW-Richland grabbed third, Greg Fisher finished fourth for UW-Waukesha, and UW-Marathon's Rick Knoek took fifth place.

Kirk Ruhnke took ninth place to pace the Cyclone harriers. The other scoring Cyclone runners were Karl Broeren, who was 14th, Dave Mielke, 23rd, and Jeff Vaughtner, 35th. Jim Olson was 40th and Steve Sprissler was 48th for the Cyclones' final finishers.

Avoids Looking Ahead to Clay Frazier Concentrates on Foster

BY RALPH BERNSTEIN
EAST STRUDSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier is trying his best to concentrate on his Nov. 18 title defense against Bob Foster, but the shadow of Muhammad Ali lurks around every corner of his Pocono Mountain training camp.

Writers, broadcasters and just plain fans find their way here to watch the champ train. They all ask the same question: Can Joe beat Ali?

"Who's he?" asks Frazier, maintaining the stoney look that is part of his ring style.

"I'm thinking about Foster," Frazier says. "He's the guy I have a contract with. I got to whip him just like I did the others."

The unbeaten Frazier has disposed of 26 others, 23 by knockout or TKO.

Frazier insists he is not looking past his defense in Detroit against light heavyweight champion Foster to that multimillion dollar fight with former champion Ali.

Sees Danger
"Foster is just as dangerous," observes Frazier. "Maybe he's more dangerous. He is fighting for life and death. He could be harder than any fight I ever had. This is the one I'm worried about."

But despite Frazier's effort to turn the conversation away from Ali, it always comes back to that.

"Ali says he's the champ, Joe, and that you're a contender, that he doesn't have to come after you," someone informed Frazier.

"I feel I'm just as much champion as him," Frazier retorted. "I fought everybody they put in front of me. If he feels like he's got a title, let him put it up. I'll put mine up. His talk doesn't bother me."

Ali says you will be easier to hit than Jerry Quarry, another needer prodded.

Aims at Body
"I'm not as easy to hit as Clay (Ali) thinks I am," Frazier replied. "My belief is that Clay is easier to hit in the body than anybody. He sticks his head back and his body is there."

What did Frazier think about Ali's recent three round TKO victory over Quarry?

"I don't know anything about it," said Frazier. "I don't read the newspapers, listen to the radio or watch television. I only know what Yank (his trainer Yank Durheim) tells me."

Informed that Quarry, who Frazier stopped in seven rounds, said Frazier would knockout Ali, Cardinals must right them in six, Joe allowed himself the

AP's Rathet Says Packers Will Win

BY MIKE RATHET
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League season reaches its midway mark this week with several critical games scheduled, including a NFC Central struggle for supremacy between Minnesota and Detroit that is enough to shake any selector.

This one is no different, and if the Vikings-Lions matchup doesn't do it, there's always Oakland-Kansas City or Green Bay-San Francisco, two other games that have a distinct bearing on conference races.

But pick we must. So here goes:

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Minnesota 24, Detroit 14—The Vikings have allowed only 39 points, including key victory over Rams last week, and Gary Cuozzo directs a precision ball-control offense. Lions hurt by losing defensive end Joe Robb.

Oakland 34, Kansas City 21—Maybe the Chiefs left their play book at the Super Bowl. But they haven't been the same since. Both teams chasing Denver in AFC West, but it'll be Raiders who catch Broncos now that Dan Conners is back at midline linebacker.

Green Bay 28, San Francisco 27—Packers, waiting for either Vikings or Lions to falter, upset Western NFL leaders on passing of Bart Starr and running of Donny Anderson, who seems finally to be enjoying himself as a pro.

Cleveland 35, San Diego 31—The Chargers can score but they give up more than they put on the board. Browns surprised defensively with shutout of Miami and Bill Nelsen now is No. 2 among AFC passers.

St. Louis 31, Houston 17—Stunned by Giants last week, Cardinals must right them in six, and should be able to do so with MacArthur Lane and Co. riddling crippled Oilers.

Baltimore 28, Miami 24—Don Shula, former Colt coach, will throw everything at Baltimore, but it's Bob Griese who really has to connect. Bubba Smith making Colts' Front Four mayhem-bent outfit.

Dallas 30, Philadelphia 10—The Eagles are overwhelming choice to win the sweepstakes for the No. 1 draft choice, but that's about all they're expected to win. Cowboys' defense playing tough.

Los Angeles 24, New Orleans 21—A day for Rams to be down following loss to Minnesota, but they'll have trouble losing to weak Saints. Besides, quarterback Roman Gabriel is a bounce-back guy.

Denver 31, Washington 20—Interesting battle between rushing leaders, AFC's Floyd Little for Broncos and NFC's Larry Brown for Redskins. Denver defense tougher, Little gets more yardage, Broncos win.

New York Giants 24, New York Jets 14—They've been arguing this one since AFL was born 11 years ago. With Giants' Fran Tarkenton hot and Joe Namath out of Jets' line-up, there's virtually no reason to argue anymore.

Boston 28, Buffalo 21—Joe Kapp, who has been mauled ever since he joined the Patriots, engineers his first victory. Despite victory over Jets, Buffalo offense lacks cohesion.

Atlanta 17, Chicago 10—The Bears gave Detroit a tussle and Dick Gordon is catching passes at a fast clip, but the Falcons get a bit stronger every week.

MONDAY NIGHT
Pittsburgh 27, Cincinnati 20—Pupul, Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll, beats teacher, Bengals' Paul Brown, with Terry Bradshaw clicking big for the first time since the exhibition season.

"I'm going to try every way possible to hold the line on new taxes, scrutinize programs and budgets, fight for more dollars from Washington. My opponent has already given up. He's talking new taxes, new spending, budget deficits, before the game even starts. Why give up? At least we can try."

Truckers Lead Twice

Lowly Jaguars Upset Clintonville, 25-16

CLINTONVILLE — Ashwaubenon registered its first victory of the season by upsetting Clintonville, 25-16, here Friday.

The Jaguars closed their season with a 1-7 record, while the Truckers ended up 4-4 in Bay Shore Conference action and 5-4 overall.

The host Truckers appeared to be headed for victory early when Pat Rogers picked up an Ashwaubenon fumble and stormed into the end zone in the opening quarter. With a successful 2-point conversion, the hosts led, 8-0.

Later in the period, the Jaguars got a solid ground game moving, and Jeff Staszak romped 29 yards to put the underdogs on the scoreboard. His 2-point conversion run tied the count at 8-8.

Pete Palm plunged one yard for yet another first quarter score, as the visitors moved to a 15-8 advantage.

The lead changed hands in the second segment when Truckers quarterback Randy Nelson hit John Schellinger on a 25-yard TD pass. Nelson put the Trucks up, 16-15, with a successful 2-point conversion run.

Clintonville's margin was short-lived, however, as the Jaguars' Gary Nelson stung the home team with a 30-yard field goal to put Ashwaubenon ahead to stay at 18-16.

Neither team could manage a scoring drive in the third quarter, but Ashwaubenon put an insurance tally on the board in the final segment when Staszak ripped off a 13-yard TD run.

Ashwaubenon's victory could be traced to its impressive margin in the rushing department. The Jaguars ground out 319 yards overland, while the Trucks produced just 27.

Staszak topped all rushers with 182 yards in 33 carries, while running mate Palm added 113 yards in 15 attempts. In total yardage, the winners had a bulging 334 to 91 advantage.

Recognition Finally Coming for Aztecs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Finally getting some recognition as befits a team that has won 52 and tied one of its last 54 games, San Diego State entertains traditional rival Fresno State tonight with the leadership of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association at stake.

The Aztecs, in only their second season as a major football college, are 14th in The Associated Press poll with a 6-0 record and own the nation's longest unbeaten streak—26 games.

They rank fourth in passing offense, 10th in scoring, first in total defense and pass defense, sixth in rushing defense and second in scoring defense.

Quarterback Brian Sipe, a worthy successor to Dennis Shaw, has completed 102 of 174 passes for 1,370 yards and 13 touchdowns. His top receivers are tight end Tim Delaney, with 34 catches for 403 yards and four touchdowns, and wide receiver Ken Burrow, with 30-467.

"We're really going to have a fight on our hands," predicts Coach Don Coryell. "No matter what the records of the teams are, each year plenty of fireworks happen."

"This year's game could be one of the best ever. Coach Darrell Rogers has a fine team—one that can do everything offensively—and they'll really be gunning for us." The Bulldogs have a 6-1 record.

That's just one of nine games on tonight's schedule, but the only one featuring a member of The AP's Top Twenty. Elsewhere, it's Kent State at Louisville, Southern Mississippi at Memphis State, New Mexico State at North Texas State, Texas Tech at Rice, West Texas State at Texas-Arlington, New Mexico at Texas-El Paso, Utah at San Jose State and Pacific at UC-Santa Barbara.

In a pair of Friday night games, Florida State rushed by Miami 27-3 and UCLA destroyed Washington State 54-9.

Tom Bailey became FSU's top career rusher with 1,600 yards in three seasons as he rambled for 116 yards—all but eight of them in the third quarter when the Seminoles broke open the close game with three touchdowns.

UCLA swarmed down the field with the opening kickoff and Randy Tyler climaxed the drive with a seven-yard scoring run, the first of his three touchdowns as the Bruins overwhelmed the

Miss Faithfull
Is Divorced by Artist Husband

LONDON (AP) — Marianne Faithfull was divorced today by her American husband on grounds of the 23-year-old actress-singer's admitted adultery with pop star Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones. Jagger agreed to pay $480 court costs to her husband, John Dunbar, 27, an artist and writer. Since the case came up originally in divorce court Miss Faithfull has found a new boy friend but she remains on friendly terms with Jagger. Her name is now romantically linked with that of an Irish Peer, Lord Rossmore. Judge Sir Robert Ormrod rejected her plea for an absolute divorce even though her counsel told the court she was anxious to "re-marry as soon as possible." Instead, the judge granted a decree nisi—meaning she must wait at least three months before applying to make the divorce absolute. Dunbar and Miss Faithfull were married in May 1965. They have a 4-year-old son, Nicholas. They were granted joint custody of the boy, who was placed under the care and control of her mother, Baroness Erisko.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — The Mary Tyler Moore Show, the best of the new series, has another winner. This time Mary has to substitute for flu-ridden Ted Baxter and do an interview with a best-selling author. She enchants him so much that he invites her to dinner. Then Mary learns a terrible fact about herself: she's a "height snob." Seems she is a good bit taller than the author, played by Hamilton Camp. She tries so hard to cover that she says things like "Toulouse-Lautrec is my favorite artist," which is the title of this episode.

Six persons appeared in court Friday afternoon on misdemeanor charges stemming from an incident early last Saturday which closed down the Paradise Club, 4201 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Two underage Milwaukee boys pleaded guilty to counts of loitering in a liquor bar. Richard Tobias, 18, and Robert J. Baczanski, 20, were fined $20 and costs by Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

County authorities said they ordered the club closed because there was no licensed bartender on the premises. Four additional persons were charged this week after an investigation. Three of them came before Schaefer on counts of serving beer and liquor without bartender's licenses.

The cases of Louis Aldio, 29, of 110 Hickory Lane, Menasha, Pam Pohlman, 19, of 320 S. Walnut St., Kimberly, and Patricia Patterson, 22, of 4110 W. Wisconsin Ave., were continued to next Friday after they said they needed time to consult attorneys. Schaefer set bail at $50.

The owner of the establishment, Russell A. Hassel, 111 N. Lynn Drive, was named in two counts. Charges of permitting unlicensed operators on the premises without the licensee or a licensed operator present, and permitting minors to loiter were continued to Friday so he can see a lawyer.

Bubolz Tells LaFave to Go to Court

Gordon Bubolz, former Republican state senator, responded to State Sen. Reuben LaFave's criticism of his support of Patrick Lucey for governor, and challenged LaFave (R-Oconto) to take his charges against Bubolz of deal making for conservation appointments to court.

"Senator LaFave has created the impression that I have made a 'deal' with Patrick Lucey to obtain an appointment to the board supervising the State Department of Natural Resources in return for my endorsement of his stand concerning environmental issues," Bubolz said. "If Senator LaFave truly believes I have made such a 'deal,' as he has implied, I challenge him to file suit to that effect with the district attorney."

"At a time when we are faced with mounting pollution problems everywhere, and when we have witnessed the ineffective enforcement of pollution laws in Wisconsin, it then becomes imperative that we support the candidate we know will take a strong stand to control pollution and a safe guard the environment," Bubolz said.

Steiger Calls Dispair Danger to Government

NEENAH — The nation's promise versus its performance and the ability of Americans "to govern themselves," in the viewpoint of Rep. William A. Steiger, are the country's No. 1 concerns today.

The Oshkosh Republican, a two-term congressman seeking re-election in next Tuesday's election, noted that of all the problems facing the U.S., the major one was the responsibility of the government to its citizens. All the rest are ancillary to that, he added.

Steiger, speaking to members of the Neenah Kiwanis Club Wednesday, pointed out "the tremendous amount of apathy-band indifference by people toward the political process" and wondered out loud how to restore "the confidence of the American people in their government."

He said that citizens despair of a government that is "so big, so complex" that their stand "doesn't make any difference."

Noting he disagreed with his GOP congressional colleague from Green Bay, Rep. John Byrnes, Steiger felt that part of the federal responsiveness to local problems could be solved through revenue sharing.

"Revenue sharing is essential," he said. "It means returning the decision-making process to those closest to the problems."

Lame-Duck Session
Steiger called the upcoming lame-duck congressional session "unfortunate" and noted that because of retirement or defeat of office holders on Nov. 3, "All restraint is off."

He said Congress would face a "host of measures" on Nov. 16 and outlined the trade and tariff legislation which would be near the top of the list.

The bill, which Steiger predicted would pass both houses of Congress and be signed by the President, would curb im-

Masons Have Official Visit At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Free and Accepted Masons lodge here had its official visit from a Grand Lodge officer Monday night following a 6:30 p.m. dinner.

Robert Billings, Clintonville, who is Worshipful Junior Grand Deacon of the Grand Lodge of Wisconsin, was the officer making the visitation.

Marion Schools Closed Circuit TV, Video Tapes Shown

MARION — A demonstration of the school system's new closed-circuit television and video tapes highlighted Tuesday's program for parents and interested citizens at the high school.

The program was presented in conjunction with American Education Week.

Robert Eggleston, Marion Education Association president, explained the many areas in which the equipment is used and the benefits derived by being able to present material to larger groups. He also noted that a student could use the tapes when it was necessary to make referrals. Various class sessions were taped and played during and after the program.

The Vesper demonstrated and discussed the new methods used in teaching freshman social studies. Miss Ross Lawrence, vocal instructor, gave a choral demonstration with the aid of Janet Weller, Kathy Nolan, Monica Bohr, James Kraeger, Terry Schlander, Charles Adams and Rose Gruenwald.

Wallace Anton, industrial arts instructor, demonstrated valve grinding with the aid of the television equipment. Kristy Krueger and Patsy Schoeneck demonstrated proper typing posture and execution. Bruce Kunz talked on the merits and management of a farm.

A practical English class was demonstrated by James Kraeger with the aid of Diane Anderson, Darlene Kraeger, Steve Pockat and several adults from the audience.

Bonnie Aschenbrenner and Joyce Malueg presented a posture demonstration as taught in the home economics classes. Miss Kraeger talked on conservation, illustrating her presentation with charts.

Manpower Bill
Also on the lame-duck agenda is a manpower bill, co-sponsored by Steiger, which would eliminate a "hodge-podge" of programs and provide for public service employment. A highway bill keyed on a new method of matching funds in the interstate system will also face Congress, Steiger said.

The 32-year-old legislator saw some "hopeful signs" in the economy but predicted trouble from the "ripple effect" if the General Motors strike continues for a long period.

Steiger said there were still "serious problems to bring the economy under control," pointing to only the 10 per cent controllable factor in the federal budget.

He felt an agreement in the SALT talks help hope for control of the arms race and reduced expenditures in Vietnam and troop cuts at Korean and European bases would curb direct defense expenditures. But Steiger added there wouldn't be such savings in those latter instances since troop pullouts would mean a "commensurate" increase in foreign military trade and sales.

"It's better to have American equipment used than American men," he said.

Steiger stated the nation was in "a period of dislocation" in going from war to peace. He claimed the rate of inflation had been slowed and the country was moving from "high inflation to low inflation without a deep recession."

"It's a difficult period of time, politically and domestically," Steiger concluded.

Kewaunee '11' Tops Seymour

Schleis Stars as 'Rated' Team Wins 17th in Row

KEWAUNEE — Junior quarterback Joe Schleis completed nine of 15 passes for three touchdowns and 113 yards, kicked two extra points and passed for a 2-point conversion to lead Kewaunee past Seymour, 28-0, here Friday.

Kewaunee, the state's seventh ranked small school, extended its 2-season winning streak to 17 games, as it closed the 1970 campaign at 9-0.

In blanking the visitors, the Indians' tough defense ran its string of scoreless quarters to 59 straight. This does not include two touchdowns scored earlier in the campaign off the offense.

Schleis' first scoring pass was a 22-yarder to Scott Smith. John Nesemann took the 2-point pass from Schleis to make it 8-0.

Paul Sinkula sandwiched a 1-yard scoring plunge between aerial strikes of 10 and 18 yards from Schleis to Jack Nowak. Schleis' two PAT kicks followed Nowak's tallies.

Nowak finished the game with five receptions for 62 yards to share the spotlight with Schleis.

Variety of Factors Blamed for Deaths

Mission Possible Program Prompts County Study

Speeding, drunk driving, late hours and a variety of other factors can all be blamed for fatal traffic accidents, Outagamie County officials concluded Wednesday night.

Opinions were aired before the County Board's Law Enforcement Committee, in response to a letter sent in August by Dean Van Gorden, state highway safety coordinator. The correspondence was part of Gov. Warren Knowles' Mission Possible program.

The letter, read by County Safety Coordinator Stanley Arnold, cited speeding and drunk driving as two of the critical factors involved. Van Gorden, who said research has showed that the worst accidents occur between the hours of 7 p.m. and 3 a.m. Wednesdays through Sundays, advocated stepping up traffic patrols during those times in the areas where they are most likely to occur.

He used the term "selective enforcement" to describe the intensified patrols of supposed critical areas.

Lt. Lowell Veitch, head of the county traffic department, said that the department now increases its manpower at rush hours on U.S. 10 and 41, State 125 and other roads leading to and from Appleton. The bulk of traffic flows in the southern part of the county, he maintains.

He held, and Sheriff Calvin Spice agreed, that a new beer bar may create hazards where there were none before. The 18 traffic fatalities in the county this year have failed to follow a reasonable pattern, Veitch said.

Clarence Brownson, County Highway Commissioner, said that additional marking signs at dangerous intersections and curves are not the only answer. Brownson has drawn fire recently for the allegedly inadequate marking of the intersection of County Trunk D and U.S. 10, where three persons have been killed this year.

He said the particular intersection was certified as "well marked" by the Bureau of Public Roads in 1966, and failed to produce an accident all last year. Only a single "fender bender" type mishap occurred at the spot in 1968, he said.

His department is presently working closely with Arnold to eliminate possible hazards at the intersection, though additional safety measures have already been taken there, he said.

Issuing written traffic citations to motorists who violate the law is "only part of the answer," Spice held.

"Are we educating enough people," when citations are written, Sgt. William Fredericks of the Wisconsin State Patrol asked. The real purpose is "to prevent the violation before it happens," Spice said.

Wautoma Raps Marion, 31-6

Hornets Gain 366 Yards in Final Game

MARION — The Wautoma Hornets walloped the Marion Mustangs, 31-6, in their final Central Wisconsin Conference football game of the season Friday night.

The win gives the Hornets a 2-4-0 conference slate and the loss put Marion's final conference record at 1-4-1.

Midway in the first quarter, Wautoma scored as Dave Bielmeier blasted in from the 2-yard line. A 23-yard pass, from Joe Netzler to Brian Schultz, early in the second stanza accounted for the Hornets' next score. Netzler tossed a 15-yard TD aerial to Paul Olson to put the score at 25-0 at the end of the first half.

Marion's only score came on a 47-yard TD heave, from Mike Meyer to Mike Mattes, early in the third frame. The Hornets retaliated with another Netzler-Olson combination for a 28-yard scoring pass play. Netzler kicked the extra point.

Wautoma led all departments rushing for 217 yards and passing for 149 for a total of 366 yards and 16 first downs while the Mustangs gained a total for 123 yards, 57 on the ground and 66 through the air and five first downs.

Gertrude Behnke 'Teacher of Year'

BRILLION — Gertrude A. Behnke, known as Mrs. "B" to many of her former students, has been named as Brillion High School's "Teacher of the Year" and her name will be entered in competition for the state honor.

She began her teaching career 25 years ago as an employee of the Brillion school system.

Mrs. Behnke prepared for her career as a business education teacher by earning a bachelor's degree at Whitewater State University. She majored in business education and minored in social studies and English.

Vocational Training

Involved in committee work for business education conferences and meetings in this area last year Mrs. Behnke served as chairman of the advisory committee for office occupations for DESA No. 9 Cooperative Educational Service Agency No. 9. This committee was instrumental in developing an educational film, "What's In It For You", based on cooperative and project method instruction in five areas of vocational education.

Mrs. Behnke initiated a cooperative office education program four years ago at Brillion High School. This cooperative effort of industry, business and the school has given students an opportunity to explore their career objectives, through on-the-job training, has provided funds for new equipment and has updated the entire business education department.

Extra-curricular accomplishments during her teaching career have included advising many freshman, sophomore, junior and senior class functions; the school newspaper, Hi-Times, plus 25 years of advising the staff of the school yearbook, The Owl, which she still maintains.

She has taught adult evening classes in typing, shorthand and bookkeeping.

For many years she has served as chairman of Christmas Seals in the City of Brillion and for the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association mailing project. Presently Mrs. Behnke is a member of the Brillion Education Association, Wisconsin Education Association, Wisconsin Business Association and the Wisconsin Association of Secondary School Vocational Educators.

'Sincerity Counts'

Her teaching schedule this year includes two classes in bookkeeping and secretarial practice. She also coordinates the work experience program between the school and community for the office education students.

To be a success in teaching, she says, "You must keep a sense of humor in everything you see. Be sincere with your students. Teach students to accept recognition by praising them for doing good. Help them build confidence in what they can do, and assist them in gaining knowledge to develop their interests and attitudes in the right direction to become dedicated citizens of the community in which they will work and live."

Her advice to anyone entering the teaching profession is to "work diligently with integrity and dedication for your employer."

The faculty, in appreciation of contributions to the school, chose Mrs. Behnke as "Teacher of the Year" for Brillion High School.

Mrs. Behnke and her husband, Kenneth, live at 722 Lee St. Their son, Dennis, is a sixth grade pupil at the elementary school.

Appleton Man Given Probation In Truck Case

WAUPACA — Thomas Gebheim, 31, 2117 No. Superior St., Appleton, charged with conspiracy in the theft of a truck from Milbauer Bros., Marion, Sept. 9, 1969, was placed on two years probation to the department of health and social services by Judge Nathan Wiese, county court branch 2. He is to pay $9 court costs.

The Waupaca County sheriff's department, which has been investigating the theft, recovered the cab of the truck on Sept. 17 from a junk dealer in Faribault, Minn. Other parts of the vehicle were recovered in this area.

Gebheim pleaded guilty after the original charge of conspiracy in the theft of the truck was reduced, changing the truck's value from $6,000 to $2,500.

He was represented by Atty. Peter F. Melchior, Appleton.

The defendant told the court that he did drive a man to Marion, later went with him from Marion to Faribault and returned him to the area.

Goal of New Council

Alcoholism Referral Point Planned in Waupaca County

WAUPACA — A single referral point to provide communication between alcoholics and their families desiring help and the courts, law enforcement agencies and the medical profession will be established in Waupaca County by the end of the year.

The Alcoholism Resource Council, organized last month, set this as its immediate goal when it met Thursday and named working committees to achieve it.

A plan also is being formulated which will provide proper treatment referral for the alcoholic and his family and for after-care when treatment is terminated, the group's second goal.

The council voted unanimously to include drug abuse in its program of services for county residents. During discussion, it was pointed out that the State Bureau of Alcoholism, Madison, has become the Bureau of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse; that drug abuse is the concern of a number of groups in the county who deal with youth, and that there is a need to draw the groups concerned and dealing with drug abuse together.

Judge Wendell McHenry told the council that he had had only three drug abuse cases in his court. Sheriff Loran Frazier reported that there now are 23 cases under intensive investigation in the county. He has, this past year, brought educational programs on drug use and abuse to most high schools in the county.

Eye Catcher

"Drug abuse is the eye catcher these days. People are uninformed, they are frightened and our youth are involved," he said. "Alcoholism is and will remain the big problem, but we have to be ready to handle both. I believe that 90 per cent of the problems which put the men in the county jail stem from alcohol."

"Those who are willing to go, and do go to Winnebago State Hospital for treatment, realize when they have been in jail 24 hours or longer that they can no longer live the way they are."

"The program at Winnebago is good, but it is not broad enough," he added. "When he gets back home, where does he go and how does he continue in his sobriety? This council has to come up with some answers."

The Rev. Edmund Webster was elected chairman of the council. Walter Kolonick is secretary and Roland W. Bernhagen, treasurer.

Father Webster received approval of six standing committees and asked them to meet as soon as possible and bring their recommendations to the council on Dec. 3.

Committees Set

Robert Payette heads the public relations-coordination committee; Fred Mantel, planning; Miss Alice Huck, education and information; Roland Bernhagen, finance; Clem J. Rickaby and Stanley Kujawski,

The council was formed as part of the state plan for alcoholism services, developed by the Department of Health and Social Services. The county will be a part of the Green Bay District, comprised of 13 north-east counties, now working with the Division of Mental Hygiene and the Bureau of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. Arbon Lee Reed, community health education consultant, Green Bay, is working with the Waupaca Council.

Lloyd Matheson has been appointed council representative to the district. He will attend a district meeting Nov. 5 in Appleton and report on the progress of the Waupaca Council.

Lucey Tells To File Cou

GREEN BAY — Saying Gov. Warren P. Knowles can take "blatantly false claims" to court if the governor feels maligned or libeled, Patrick Lucey Thursday repeated charges of paper industry influence over Knowles appointments to antipollution agencies.

But the Democratic candidate for governor did not say whether he has evidence that Knowles' appointees have unduly influenced state water pollution abatement policy in favor of the industry.

He was asked during a press conference at Austin-Straubel Field whether he had specific charges to level at persons he has named as representing the paper industry on pollution agencies, or whether he was talking only about "a possibility of undue influence."

Lucey did not answer the question regarding the performance of industry oriented appointees, but shifted his reply to what he claims is the influence employed by the industry in determining appointments.

"I know from personal knowledge of situations that have developed in this regard which I think clearly indicate that when prospective appointees have contacted the governor's office they were advised that they should first talk to John Kimberly," he said.

"And I know of at least one instance where Kimberly said no, and the result was that the man did not get the appointment."

Republican Sources

Kimberly, retired chairman of the board of Kimberly-Clark Corp., is Republican state finance chairman.

Lucey added that most of his sources of information are Republicans and "most of them are not willing to make public statements at this point of the political campaign."

"If the governor feels that he has been maligned or that he has been libeled, a court of law is the proper place to resolve this matter, and at that time of course I could subpoena these people and require them to testify under oath," Lucey said.

Asked whether he had any intentions of initiating court action himself, he added, "I see no point in it."

"I think the Republican party has failed miserably in its trust during the last 6 years that it has been trustee of the environment of this state and I think that when a trustee fails his trust he should be trustee no longer."

"But this is not a matter for the judicial branch of our government. This is a matter to be resolved at the polls next Tuesday."

Knowles earlier this week denounced Lucey's charges as malicious personal attacks, as

Thompson Could be Froehlich's Toughest Challenger

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich faces what may be his toughest challenger at the polls in Appleton Ald. Glenn Thompson since his election to the Assembly in 1964.

First Assembly District voters will not be able to say they do not have a choice when they go to vote.

Froehlich's conservatism has been made a state-wide campaign issue by the Democrats. Thompson, far from being considered a "radical" still offers a startling contrast to the views of the Assembly speaker.

Despite the differences in philosophy between the two, there have been few confrontations during the campaign, with both candidates mainly relying on their positions on the council and assembly to reach the public.

Both agree that taxes are one of the main issues, if not the main issue.

Froehlich called for allowing local communities to impose "piggyback" sales and income taxes to ease the property tax burden. "We must seriously consider how much funding the state will do for local units of government," Froehlich said. He agreed the state has a responsibility to aid local governments "but how far do we go?" he asked.

Glenn Thompson

"We must allow local government to raise these taxes and then keep the state budget increases within the economic rate of growth," Froehlich contended.

Annual Budget

Thompson said he admitted it would be "hard to do something about taxes" but felt one place to start would be the adoption of an relief annual state budget. Along with this, he said, would be tax relief for the elderly. "This would be my goal the first year," Thompson said.

He said he did not see how the state could control spending with its two-year budgets. "Appleton can't work with a one-year budget," he said.

He contended that tax relief for the elderly could be accomplished through better distribution of state aids as proposed in the revised Tarr Task Force recommendations.

While taxes are a major point, Froehlich has built much of his campaign on the law and order issue, particularly campus unrest.

The GOP leader called for life imprisonment without eligibility for parole for anyone convicted of bombings, and for state financed law enforcement training and election of federal judges.

He said "we should end the idea of awarding practicing politicians with judgeships." He made specific reference to Federal Judge John Doyle and said "When they get as far out of line as Doyle, we should get rid of him." Froehlich charged "The problem of law enforcement is the judiciary."

He also called for the limiting of the size of the Madison campus of the university and also limiting the enrollments at the Oshkosh and White-water campuses. "Those campuses are as big as those cities can afford," Froehlich said.

Approach Wrong

Thompson agreed there was a problem with campus disorders but felt the approach has been wrong. "I have a son in college and I can understand some of their problem," Thompson said. "I don't think the politicians understand them."

He said this did not mean violence should be permitted. "We must solve the problem before the violence occurs," Thompson said. "Creating a police state will not solve the problem." He agreed that strict measures were needed to halt bombings. "A bomb is much worse than a gun," Thompson said.

He also called for better enforcement of drug laws, particularly where it involves the "pushers." However, Thompson said the problem of the drug user should be solved by "ways other than by putting them in jail."

Local Action

Both Froehlich and Thompson feel existing antipollution laws are adequate but that better enforcement is needed. Froehlich said the problem is the lack of trained personnel to enforce the laws.

Thompson called for more action at the local level. He called for a sewer use tax on anything above a two-family dwelling to help finance treatment plant improvements. He also called for retroactive federal assistance on treatment plant construction.

Thompson termed the Tri-County Expressway the "number one goal" of the district. This is even more important than new bridges in the city, he said. If a bypass is built it would extend the life of the Memorial Drive bridge 15 years, Thompson claimed.

Thompson, 43, is married and has two children. He is a native of Appleton and has been on the council for six years.

Froehlich is seeking his fourth term to the Assembly. He has been speaker of the lower house his last two terms and has frequently been referred to as one of the most powerful men, politically, in the state.

ALC Convention Roundup Presiding Officers, Women, War Objectors Win Rights

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The American Lutheran Church closed its biennial convention Tuesday after a week-long session in which delegates approved the ordination of women and endorsed conscientious objection to specific wars.

In a historic move on the final day of business, the church's fifth general convention approved the use of the title of bishop for its presiding officers.

The convention earlier departed from long held tradition to allow children to take communion prior to their confirmation.

The denomination's 1,000 delegates, representing 2.5 million members, also elected a new president to succeed a church leader who has served in the post for a decade.

The Rev. Dr. Kent is Knutson, 46, president of Westburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, will take office Jan. 1. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schlotz, 69, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Installation

Dr. Knutson was installed Saturday after an election that featured unprecedented open campaigning for the presidency. There were 10 candidates for the post.

Proposals on selective conscientious objection failed at two previous general conventions of the church, but the issue passed Tuesday on a secret ballot of 577-301 after heated debate.

The convention approved a proposal calling on Congress to "provide alternate forms of national service to those who object on religious, moral and philosophical grounds to participation in a specific war."

The two other major Lutheran bodies, several other Protestant denominations, and Roman Catholic bishops also have urged the government to recognize selective conscientious objection.

The proposal adopted here also calls for consideration of a volunteer military force.

The convention's vote allowing women to be ordained as ministers, which came Saturday, followed similar action taken by a sister denomination, the 3.2-million-member Lutheran Church in America.

Top Title

The American Lutheran Church became the first Lutheran body in the nation Tuesday to approve the title of bishop for its highest clerical leaders—district presidents and the denomination's general president.

The delegates approved a proposal for an indefinite, experimental period for use of the title before it is officially adopted.

Most Protestant bodies discarded the title in the 16th Century Protestant Reformation, although most European Lutheran churches now use it.

A carefully worded statement on legalized abortion was deferred because several states already have adopted legislation on the matter, officials said.

The convention adopted a statement reiterating a stand taken previously acknowledging that "there are times and circumstances when interruption of a pregnancy may be necessary for therapeutic reasons."

Reformation Rally Is Scheduled at Trinity, Hilbert

HILBERT — The Inter-Lake Reformation Rally has been scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran Church here, a mile south of Potter.

Guest speaker for the event will be the Rev. Leonard Buelow, Green Bay. His topic is "Reformation — wise or foolish?" Buelow is a graduate of Concordia Seminary in Springfield, Ill. He also studied at Lutheran Seminary in Germany and has traveled extensively in Europe and the Holy Land.

An added feature of the rally will be a parade and presentation of reformation banners prepared by the young people of Trinity.

Liturgists will be the Rev. Theodore Bartell, Brillion, and the Rev. Ferdinand Timmer, Hilbert. The joint choir will be under the direction of Robert Carpenter, Plymouth.

Methodists in England To Introduce Handclasp

LONDON (AP) — The symbolic gesture of a handclasp will be introduced into Holy Communion services of the English Methodist Church for a three-year experimental period. The handclasp is given before receiving the elements at the communion table. It is the equivalent of the kiss of peace given in Roman Catholic, High Anglican and Orthodox worship. The handclasp has been used in the liturgy of the Church of South India since it was formed in 1947.

Holy Cross Parish Social Scheduled

KAUKAUNA — The Holy Cross Athletic Association will sponsor a social in the school cafeteria from 9 p.m. to midnight Nov. 7. Proceeds from the affair to help defray cost of folding bleachers for the gym.

Police Cadets Learn Discipline From Passionist Monks

CONSETT, England (AP) — Police cadets are getting character-training at the Roman Catholic Passionist monastery of Minsteracres near here. In groups of four and of any denomination they briefly share the lives of the priests and novices while learning something of the underlying principles of discipline and service.

"We are not imposing strict monastic rules for the cadets," said Father Colum Devine, the superior. "The idea is to give them plenty of healthy work and let them see what kind of work we do."

It is narrated by Betty Elliott, who with her daughter returned to live among the Indians.

Tex Watson, Tate Murders Suspect, Declared Insane

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles "Tex" Watson, accused of leading two murder missions in which Sharon Tate and six others died, has been declared insane and in danger of dying.

A judge ordered Watson committed to a state mental hospital and said Friday he would not be tried until he regains his sanity.

Dr. Marcus Crahan, one of three psychiatrists reporting on the tall, lean Texan, said: "Mr. Watson in the last week has become listless, flaccid and makes no movements . . . His lips are pursed. He is being fed by nasal tube. He is . . . becoming a vegetable. He is rapidly reverting to a fetal state . . . which would be rapidly fatal."

Murder Conspiracy

The insanity ruling by Superior Court Judge George Dell came at a hearing across the hall from a courtroom where Charles Manson and three women are being tried on murder-conspiracy charges for the deaths of Miss Tate and six other persons in August 1969.

Trial witnesses have described Watson, 24, as cruel lieutenant of Manson's hippie-style "family." Watson fought extradition from McKinney, Tex., until after the trial of the others began, and was returned here Sept. 11 to stand trial separately.

Gaunt but clean-cut looking, the 6-foot-2 former high school athlete has made several court appearances since then, always remaining silent, his mouth agape, occasionally smiling vacantly and staring into space.

Officials told Judge Dell that Watson was in serious condition in the jail infirmary where his weight had dropped from 160 pounds to 110. Jail spokesmen said, "There is a serious possibility he could die from malnutrition."

Two other reporting psychiatrists told Dell that Watson shows signs of schizophrenia, is "definitely a suicide possibility," and suffers from a catatonic type of mental illness that requires immediate treatment as a lifesaving measure.

Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger issued a statement saying his office concedes that Watson is insane now, but does not concede that he was insane at the time of the killings.

Younger said that if Watson regains sanity, criminal proceedings will be resumed.

Judge Dell ordered Watson removed immediately to Atascadero State Hospital and declared, "He is not capable of understanding at this time the nature of the charges against him. I feel it is imperative that he be placed in a facility where he may be able to regain his sanity."

Ford Recalling 26,000 Pintos

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Friday it is recalling 52,700 passenger cars, trucks and buses because of problems with accelerator and brake systems.

Some 26,000 owners of Ford's new subcompact Pinto equipped with the standard 98-cubic-inch four-cylinder engine are being asked to return their cars to dealerships for inspection.

The company says that a modification of the throttle linkage may be necessary because when the throttle is opened more than half way it may not always return to a closed position.

Ford also asked owners of certain 1968, 1969 and 1970 medium and heavy-duty truck and bus chassis to inspect their brake master cylinder reservoirs for distortion of the cover.

BRUSSELS (AP) — France brought before the European Court of Justice on charges of treaty violations.

President Franco Maria Malfatti of the European Common Market Executive Community has given France until the end of November to comply with a treaty set up by the European Atomic Energy Committee.

The pact requires its signers to furnish yearly reports on mineral prospecting, production, reserves and investments.

The next step in the procedure normally would be court action, but a French spokesman said there may still be delays and the case could be dropped entirely.

The European Atomic Energy Community, which deals in nuclear energy for peaceful purposes, is made up of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Its supply agency has the exclusive rights to contract for fissionable materials, which normally are used in electric power plants but can be further refined for use in bombs.

Malfatti says France has refused to make the reports since 1964 and has traded in uranium without telling the organization. But France says the sections of the treaty cited by Malfatti are no longer in effect and have never been fully enforced.

Legal action, if brought, would be heard by the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg, which has ruled in favor of the commission in 15 of 26 cases. The tribunal was set up as part of the European Common Market.

Beloit Corp. Layoffs

Paper Machinery Firm Cuts Back

BELOIT (AP) — A plant-wide layoff of 125 employees and a 10 per cent reduction in pay for others—effective immediately—was announced Friday by the Beloit Corp., maker of paper-making machinery.

The cuts were made necessary by economic considerations, said Edward C. Lever, vice president of operations.

Monthly salaried personnel received a 10 per cent cut in pay while all hourly employees were reduced a similar amount, Lever said.

The firm is Beloit's principal industry with a normal payroll of about 2,500.

"For the past several months our business has been below plant capacity," Lever said, "but we have been able to control costs and hold off any economic adjustments such as these. However, in the past month, several major orders which were in process have been delayed."

"Our customers' earnings and profits are down," he said, "and they simply do not have the funds available to pay for new papermaking machinery."

The firm's machine shop employees will work a 4½ day week. Foundry department personnel will work alternating four and five-day weeks.

A Farmer's Contribution to Peace

The awarding of the Nobel Peace Prize to Dr. Norman Borlaug is a strong indication of the growing realization among many people of the future dangers of over-population and lack of food supplies.

Dr. Borlaug is the first agriculturalist to win the prize. A native of Iowa, he received much of his education at the University of Minnesota but his primary agricultural work has been in Mexico. There he has been one of the advocates and a prime sponsor of the so-called "green revolution." He has worked particularly in the field of wheat, helping to develop better disease-resistant strains. However, he has also been associated with the tremendously successful rice program in the Philippines. Much of the sponsorship for both projects has come from the Rockefeller Foundation.

In great part due to Dr. Borlaug's work in Mexico, that country has not only become self-sufficient in grains but is able to export wheat and corn to India and Pakistan as well as the know-how. Both those Asian countries have doubled their wheat yields in five years due to the technology from Mexico which Dr. Borlaug stimulated and developed.

Dr. Borlaug has an interesting point of view about the lag in agricultural development in some nations over the years. The small farmer, he finds, is not responsible and is tremendously interested in innovations. Government is the big bad wolf in resisting changes. The built-in allegiance to established practices apparently stymies efforts to change them even when they are proven wrong. Obviously this problem is not limited to the field of agriculture.

There have been warnings this last year from such people as Dr. Paul Erlich that the "green revolution" will not be enough to save the world from famine in some areas and practically a state of siege in others to protect what they have. Apparently Dr. Borlaug agrees. "Population growth transcends all other problems," he says.

But his work has helped at least to put off that dreadful day of reckoning. It is particularly important that work in his field at last is recognized as extremely important in the universal quest for peace. Some reputable scientists argue that man's nature is aggressive and that the search is an illusory one. But hunger and extremely low standards of living must contribute to the danger of massive war which could extinguish all of us.

Recess for Politics

There has been a lot of discussion about whether university and college administrators should permit students to take off from their studies this fall to take an active part in political campaigns. There is the Princeton plan which permits them to do so. More widespread are more informal plans which stress the importance of keeping classes going but allow individual students more time off if they can sell the idea to their particular instructors.

In general we have agreed that it must be an individual matter, that there is no reason to suspend classes for the many to accommodate the few, that the student who wants to be active in politics must face the same problems that the working man or woman does.

But sadly enough the example set by his elders isn't always so noble.

The Christian Science Monitor points out that in Massachusetts, as in most states, the law prohibits public employees from promoting "any political object whatever" by donating money "or other valuable thing." But a considerable number of state employees are doing just that while still on the payroll.

Communist President in Chile

The official confirmation by the National Congress in Chile of the election of Marxist Dr. Salvador Allende to the presidency—won in free elections earlier this fall—was a wise move despite our concerns about far leftist governments.

The elections were free and apparently honest. Dr. Allende made no bones about his plans to nationalize more industries, expand land reform, establish better relations with Cuba and generally lead his government to the left. He has had the cooperation of Chile's Communist party, although it probably was not the determining factor in the election.

Supporters of the runner-up—Dr. Jorge Alessandri—many of them quite conservative, clearly decided that confirmation of Dr. Allende at this point offered the best chance for peace in the nation. It may have been the murder by so far unknown terrorists of Army General Commander in Chief Rene Schneider that was the final convincer. General Schneider had scrupulously insisted that the army stay clear of any part in the elections, not a usual occurrence in Latin American politics. He may well have been assassinated for that point of view by those who fear a swing to the left. On the other hand, his killing may have come from extremists who see an army leader as a symbol of right wing repression.

No one can easily predict the future for Chile at this point. Actually its last few regimes have been more and more of the state. And the governor's private secretary, who gets $27,000 a year, has taken a six weeks vacation to manage the campaign of the incumbent, Governor Francis Sargent. The head of the state appellate tax board is also the head of all campaign workers and has also taken a six weeks vacation, somewhat longer than most people have each year. A considerable number of other state employees appear to be moonlighting in their campaign work as they are not on vacation, paid or otherwise. Some have resigned public positions—after the Monitor reporter mentioned that they appeared to be violating state law.

Obviously advocates of one candidate or another can hardly be restrained from some amount of political activity even if only licking stamps at home or running off mimeographed copies of political speeches.

But those who get so righteous about student political activity—which apparently this fall will not have the impact it did in the spring of 1968—should look at the way some adults ignore not only what is considered proper practice but the law itself.

socialist in concept. A considerable number of industries have been nationalized for years. Chile is both a fertile agricultural nation and one rich in minerals. But the vast gap between the haves and have-nots, which exists in so many Latin American lands, remains a major problem.

We may expect in the next few months to hear some anti-American noises from Chile. It's getting more and more popular in much of Latin America to use the United States as a scapegoat. Whatever the intentions of the various American industries in those areas, their existence has meant a reliance upon the United States which probably has not been completely healthy, economically or psychologically.

Chile's swing to the left and its intention to restore diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba, outlawed in cooperation with the Organization of American States, are bound to have their effect upon the attitudes toward other members of the OAS, especially the revolutionary regimes in Peru and Bolivia which came to power through coups rather than elections. Under the circumstances we hope our own government continues to review our diplomatic and trade boycotts with the Castro government.

If Dr. Allende can enact reforms in Chile with honest compensation for nationalized industries and lands and without the force applied in Communist countries, he may lead the way in raising Latin American standards. But we remain somewhat skeptical.

Quoted from The Appleton Post, Oct. 13, 1970

There is no competition for us in the printing business in Appleton. Last Monday morning we commenced work on a series of orders that amounted to over $400. We do not make this statement in a boasting manner nor because we take pleasure in intruding our business affairs on the attention of the public, but we simply mention it as one result of what a reasonable amount of industry will accomplish. We have engaged the services of another first-class job printer who will commence work next Monday. In the meantime we invite our friends to call and examine our facilities and specimens of work.

An unprecedented rush of job work has prevented us from devoting much time to our paper this week. Editorial labors with us are evening pastimes—not the duties of the day. Bear with us friends, a little longer.

Red China Makes Another Try To Gain Membership in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — All the evidence indicates that Communist China is trying to come out of its isolationist shell and establish normal relations with other nations in the world. But after years marked by mutual lack of trust, the task is not going to be easy for the Red giant, and this year—once again—she is expected to be rejected for membership in the United Nations.

In last year's vote, 48 members of the United Nations favored letting down the barriers for Red China—four more than the previous year. Fifty-six opposed it, two fewer than in 1968; and there were 21 abstentions, a drop of two from the year before.

Two of the nations that abstained from the balloting last year were Italy and Belgium, both of which had been staunch U.S. allies in opposing admission for Red China. Both have been negotiating with Peking for over a year on the possibility of diplomatic recognition.

Recognition By Canada
The two Western nations are believed to be a bit closer to agreement with Red China on to outlaw the atomic bomb. Girl Scouts of Troop 9 of St. Therese elected Nancy Kuehnl, president; Cornelia Knuppel, vice president; Jane Edge, treasurer; Barbara Ingthron, secretary; and Margaret Zuleger, librarian and reporter.

The city had not yet finished paying for the proposed South Oneida Street bridge, it was learned when the State Highway Commission requested $8,000 to cover Appleton's share of the engineering and survey costs. The city had already sent a check for $65,000 to the commission, so the additional charge brought the city's share of one-third of the cost of the bridge to $73,000.

With $10,000 its goal, the Appleton Baseball Club announced it was well on its way to post-war reorganization with $2,000 pledged by private enterprises.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Oct. 29, 1960

A free-swinging assault by President Eisenhower on Democratic "irresponsibility" raised Republican hopes for homestretch vigor in the final 10 days of the presidential campaign.

Appleton High School students staged a mock political rally, complete with the two presidential and vice presidential candidates. Playing the roles were juniors in the American history classes. Phillip Kisslinger and Susan Reetz were cast as the Henry Cabot Lodge; Lynn Gmeiner and Richard Ottman, the Richard M. Nixon; Judith Jones and Neil Stillings, the John F. Kennedy; and Kathleen Cook and Richard Cresswell, the Lyndon B. Johnsons.

Outagamie County learned it would have to go it alone if it wanted a new and bigger airport. Winnebago County board supervisors turned down the proposal 36 to 15 after a five-hour debate.

recognition now that Canada has announced it will exchange ambassadors with the mainland government and withdraw diplomatic recognition from the Taipei government of Nationalist China.

One of the big stumbling blocks in the way of a diplomatic exchange between Canada and Red China in the past was believed to be Canada's attitude toward Communist Chinese membership in the United Nations. Now that diplomatic recognition is a reality, it's not yet known just how Canada will vote this year on the China question.

In addition to the votes of Italy, Belgium and Canada, other question marks this year are the votes of Bolivia, Peru and Chile, all of which have demonstrated marked swings to the left during the past year. In last year's balloting, Bolivia and Peru were opposed to Red Chinese admission, and Chile abstained.

In the first vote ever taken on the issue, in 1950, admission for Communist China was rejected by a vote of 33 to 6. The closest was in 1965, when the vote was a 47-47 tie.

Two-Thirds Majority

As it did last year, the United States is prepared to sponsor a resolution which would declare the issue important enough to require a two-thirds majority for approval. That resolution, which could prove critical eventually in barring Communist China from admission to the world body, was approved last year by a vote of 71-38 with four abstentions.

With 45 nations now recognizing Red China and the number promising to grow in the near future, however, many observers see it as only a question of time before there will be a Red Chinese mission to the U.N. in New York.

Where Does Guilt Lie For Unruly Students?

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
How convenient it is to blame the high school teachers for the behavior of some students. We might as well chastise our law enforcement officials for the crimes committed in our city.

If you talk to the majority of high school students today, you will find an intelligent, well-mannered, cleanly dressed (with or without long hair), honest, mature and respectful young adult. This type of student comes from only one place, a home where the parents teach and live by the same qualities. Now talk to the small minority of students today and you will find an ill-mannered, sloppy dressed, immature, disrespectful kid who would just as soon cause trouble than prevent it. Where does this type of student come from? He comes from a home where the parents live the same way or they just don't care. These parents are the guilty ones. They are the ones who send the trouble makers to school. They are the ones who are quick to say, let the teachers straighten the kids out, it's their job. But wait then—we all must be guilty because after all, a teacher can only work with what we give him and, brother, just check the list of what we've given.

1. We've elected local, state and federal officials who take authority away from our teachers and police, rather than give them more.
2. We talk all day about drug problems in the school but when it comes right down to it, the teacher who sees it everyday has little legal authority to really act.
3. We've made it impossible for a teacher to physically handle a student who really needs it, for fear of a law suit.
4. We let a liberal judge in southern Wisconsin tell us what's legal regarding proper dress when it should be decided at home.
5. We give little if any parental and public support to our teachers when it's really needed.
6. We've tied the teachers arms, and legs, taped his mouth and buttoned his pocketbook to make sure it doesn't bulge.
7. Some of us send uncontrollable kids to school who need more discipline than we

"BUT DON'T WORRY, SIR—WE HARDLY EVER COURT-MARTIAL GENERALS, DO WE?"

Wisconsin Report

Voters Are Divided Into Two Classes, Payers and Receivers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Truman McNulty is a Milwaukee lawyer, a Republican, and a man of considerable sense of the individual's responsibility in public affairs, as shown by his acceptance of a seat on the State Board of Health and Social Services. It is perhaps as thankless and anonymous a place as can be named in the higher echelons of state affairs.

He is also a man of a philosophical frame of mind and a realist with the aptitude for clarity of speech. He demonstrated this when he emerged from the solemn, difficult and almost certainly painful deliberations of his board as it endorsed walloping increases in budget requests for the next state administration and the next legislature.

His refined summary of the dilemma in which the board found itself was as revelatory as a score of typical lectures by political scientists.

Two Sides to Society

But let him repeat: "You have two sides to society. Those who are paying are saying it is too much (the budget with which he was concerned) and those who are receiving are saying it is too little. When we walk out of this room today, we are going to get it from both sides."

Here is the kernel of the eternal dilemma of the modern politician at all levels of elected American government. It rings with special emphasis because the conflict between paying more and getting more is likely to become more acutely disputed for a long time before it is resolved—if ever.

The Wisconsin electorate, or that part of it that was listening for the last six months, has observed the political division between the "payers" and the "receivers" as it has been demonstrated with exceptional sharpness in the campaign for the governorship.

One candidate resolved early that he would make his pitch to the tax-weary. The second candidate quite as naturally concluded that he would appeal to those who want more public services, more help of all kinds, more participation of government and the public tax dollar in the community life of the times.

Both Had Reservations
Both had reservations, not being quite sure that there is a clear-cut majority vote on any side of the issue. Any other considerations—habit, ethnic loyalties, philosophical convictions, and ancient prejudices—intrude. As both candidates knew, there are wealthy persons, keenly aware of their tax liabilities, who are liberals. There are many men and women of humble means who are conservatives.

But the essential value of the McNulty remark remains. If the electorate is susceptible to any definition by divisions, his is a useful one.

But all generalizations tend to be defective, including this one.

There are heavy taxpayers who complain bitterly about their tax liability, quite unaware or unwilling to acknowledge that they belong to groups that want more public services and eagerly use them when offered. Perhaps the inconsistency is more glaring in that direction than is that of the person of comparatively modest means whose taxes are progressively lower according to his income status (at least in Wisconsin) and who nevertheless votes in favor of candidates and parties of conservative fiscal posture when he can find them.

Education Good Example

The best example involves education. It is no secret—or should not be—that the great source of students for the tax-supported institutions of higher learning who are swelling enrollments to new record levels each year is the middle to upper middle income class which also bears the brunt of taxes.

The father of such a family will grumble about his tax liability, but if he sends three children to the University of Wisconsin for their education, he will get a far greater return on his taxes than will most of his neighbors. To such a man, tax, subsidized tuition of perhaps $20,000 is as important as the welfare check to the abandoned mother.

There are other contradictions within the equation, with all respect to the value of the generalization of McNulty. One of the first lessons the attentive political reporter learns is that the head of the family, the wage or salary earner, is often more conservative in politics than his spouse. Often he is not aware of it, or merely smiles indulgently.

Many is the time that a legislative committee has listened to the demands of women's group lobbyists of all persuasions demanding more spending for special purposes, while their husbands are actively working on behalf of fiscal caution or retrenchment. The moral, if any, is that the elector is typically as inconsistent as many men in office.

Asks Concerned Parents To be More Specific

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
As a member of the staff who fully endorses the philosophy of Mr. Ore and that of East High School, I feel it my obligation to respond to the "Concerned Parents of Appleton East."

I am not in total disagreement with the authors of the letter. I too feel that it is not only the parents' right but duty to question and challenge the methods and philosophy let the teachers give them.

The list could go on, but why? The guilty parties should be obvious by now. If mud is to be thrown, let's throw it at ourself, for we richly deserve it.

Guilty Parent

used by those of us involved in the teaching of their children.

I encourage and welcome reasonable dialogue. I encourage and welcome challenge and rational opinion. It is an integral part of the process through which intelligent citizenship is developed. I strongly suggest that any concerned parents of students enrolled in my classes come observe and challenge the learning they will witness.

Meanwhile, I can only assume that the concerned parents will be more precise in defining "the general attitude of permissiveness" and the "general reputation that Appleton High School-East has acquired" and how this attitude and reputation have been detrimental to significant learning.

Local Chapter Could Muddy Image

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago I approached my doctor about a vasectomy. He said he would send some material on the subject so I might better understand what I was asking. A few days later I received an envelope from "Planned Parenthood".

These Watch-Dogs of Other People's Business sent, free of charge, a form prying into my personal life. They wanted to know how many children we had, their ages, my financial status, etc. They didn't ask why we didn't want more children, but offered to "review my request". If it was worthy of consideration they would direct me to a doctor and recommend that I have the operation.

I scribbled across the form that my personal life was none of their business and I hoped they would find something better to do with their time and funds. Tell me, Ann Landers, what is Planned Parenthood doing in this act? — Age of Aquarius
Dear Age: The Chicago

chapter of Planned Parenthood knows nothing of such forms and they are as baffled as I. Please send me a copy of the form and I will look into it. Planned Parenthood is an extremely fine national organization. If some local chapter is muddying the image, the board of directors wants to know about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in response to the woman who asked, "Must a parent die before his children appreciate him?" I am a teenager who is asking the same question — in reverse. Does a kid have to die before his parents appreciate him? I mean appreciate what he is, not what they would like him to be.

If my parents love me it is because they brought me into the world, and for no other reason. They don't know me well enough to love me for what I am because they don't know what I am. My parents are decent, upper-middle-class people who, like most other decent, upper-middle-class Americans, want their daughters to graduate from college and have a degree so they can teach school if they should need to support themselves. For their sons they want successful careers as doctors or lawyers.

I would dearly love to know my parents and have them know me but we live in different worlds and speak different languages. I've tried to scale the wall that separates us, but it is too high. I can't make it. — North Shore

Dear North: If you could peer through that wall you would probably see two decent, upper-middle-class parents who are also trying to scale the wall. They are older than you and it's a much tougher climb for them.

There's a door in that wall — one you've passed dozens of times but didn't realize was there. Look for it. And turn the knob gently. It's open.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope "Mount Everest" (the guy who is six feet 8 inches and feels like King Kong) takes your advice and stands tall. My 15-year-old kid sister is six feet 1 inch and still growing. At age 12 she was the tallest person in the school. The poor girl was so miserable she was turning

Pericardium Trouble Has Varied Symptoms

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How serious is pericarditis? How long does it usually take to get over it? Does it happen to people with normal hearts or is there always a heart condition present first? — R.M.

The pericardium is the lining of a sac that encases the heart. Pericarditis is inflammation of this lining.

When this membrane becomes inflamed, you'd be surprised at the variation in what can happen. There may be no symptoms at all. Or there may be a feeling of heaviness, and pain in the heart area (left of center in the chest). Fever, shortness of breath, fatigue are other likely symptoms.

Fluid may gather in the sac, and have to be drained, both for diagnostic purposes and for relief of symptoms.

There are many causes: infection due to viruses, the "coccal" bacteria (streptococcus or staphylococcus), tuberculosis, some types of fungi.

It can occur as a complication of such conditions as uremia, malignant disease, or heart disease, as rheumatic fever or coronary attacks.

So it may occur in people who already have heart disease, but it also can happen to people with otherwise normal, healthy hearts, particularly from virus infections or after a severe chest injury.

Your first question, therefore, is very difficult to answer in general terms — although your own doctor may be able to give a more specific answer in your particular case.

The seriousness, and also the length of time for recovery, depends very much on the cause. Viral infections, for example, will subside in two or three weeks. Infections of other kinds may require prolonged treatment.

Bacterial or tuberculous infections may even become chronic and cause enough constriction of the pericardium to impede heart action.

The cause in a particular case is the significant question. After it has been determined, it is possible to decide on the proper treatment, and very often to give some reliable forecast as to whether it will be a brief illness or an extended one, and whether or how much it will interfere with the patient's activity.

Dear Doctor: My husband is a heavy smoker and wants to quit, but is afraid he will gain weight. — M.L.

Weight gain in such cases is usually more psychological than physiological. Smoking doesn't reduce one's weight — except as one has developed a habit of reaching for tobacco instead of for something to eat.

Admittedly, this is a hazard connected with giving up smoking — you feel an urge to smoke, so you look for something else to do instead. Like carrying candy mints in your pocket or raiding the ice box.

But if you are aware of that, hazard, you can learn to substitute something else, whether it's whistling or whistling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that mineral oil keeps one from absorbing vitamins in food? I take it about twice a week, and it seems to help me, but I don't want to use it if it prevents absorption of vitamins. — Mrs. L. C.

Yes, the oil (which is not absorbed by the body) can pick up and carry away oil-soluble vitamins, such as vitamin A, but I doubt that you will be harmed by occasional use. Why not try limiting it to once a week?

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Young Hobby Club Transform Towel Tube Into Pencil, Pen Holder

BY CAPPY DICK

To make a flower pot holder for pencil and pens, the first step is to cut a paper towel tube so it is an inch less in length than the height of the pot to be used.

Tape this section of tube to a cardboard disc cut to the circumference of the pot bottom (see figure 1). Drop it into the pot.

Obtain some tall artificial leaves and put them into the towel core (figure 2), then fill the space around the tube with your pencils and pens.

The green leaves together with the various colors of pencils and pens will create a striking desk piece that is equally useful.

Before using the pot, you may wish to paint it with enamel paint. Wash and dry it thoroughly to remove any soil, then apply one or two coats of enamel of the color you believe will be most effective in combination with the colors of the leaves, pencils and pens.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

Are you happy when the opponents bid a small slam and you are on lead with two aces? Excluding no-trump slams, many an opening leader would have preferred one ace instead of two. Nothing is more painful than leading the wrong ace against a slam!

Today's hand was played several years ago George Raper of New York City and the late Bud Smith of Grosse Pointe, Mich., were South and North respectively. The bidding was:

Raper South 1♥ Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass 5♥ Pass 6♥ Pass

Smith North 3♥ Pass 5♥ Pass 6♥ Pass

As West, what would you have led against six hearts?

Strong and unlimited.

As West, what would you have led against six hearts?

Oswald Jacoby sat West, partnered by Ace Bobby Wolff. Jacoby pondered long and hard over the opening lead. Unusual for such an accurate and lightning-fast thinker.

What were Jacoby's thoughts? Raper apparently had a minimum hand and no slam interest, since he had signed off in hearts at every opportunity. Bud Smith not only drove the hand to a small slam, his bid of six clubs showed definite interest in a grand slam. In fact, Smith's bidding demanded that Raper bid the grand slam if he had first-round spade control.

(When a player cue-bids at the six level, he has in effect, bid a small slam. If his interest were limited to the small slam, he could have bid six in the agreed trump suit. The fact that he cue-bids instead definitely invites a grand slam.)

What could this mean? The only solution consistent with Jacoby's holding of two black aces was that Smith was void in clubs and had all controls other than the spade ace. (Smith cue-bid clubs but not spades.) Therefore, Jacoby reasoned the only hope for the defense lay in the spade suit.

Guidance Center Finds New Man

NEENAH — A new psychiatric social worker has been hired by the Guidance Center. It looked for months before it found a man.

William Borchardt, 28, said, "My primary concern was to get back into the area." He grew up in Kaukauna and his parents still live there. He now lives in the Town of Menasha with his wife and two children.

Before coming to the guidance clinic, Borchardt was the chief social worker at Raymond W. Bliss Army Hospital in Fort

New Trustees Are Selected For Lawrence

University Board Also Re-elects 8 To New Terms

The Board of Trustees of Lawrence University today elected six new trustees, two on the nomination of the Lawrence University Alumni Association, at its annual meeting.

The board also re-elected eight trustees, including one serving a second term as an alumni trustee.

The new trustees are Russell C. Flom, Menasha; Raymond H. Herzog, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. William A. Siekman, Appleton; Edwin N. West, New York City; Dr. Elizabeth A. Steffen, Racine; and C. Nicholas Vogel, Fargo, N. D. Dr. Steffen and Vogel are the new alumni trustees.

Re-elected were Bishop Ralph T. Alton, Sun Prairie; Mrs. William M. Chester, Milwaukee; Mrs. Charles U. Culmer, Libertyville, Ill.; Mrs. Richard W. Cutler, and John C. Gelfuss, Milwaukee; John P. Reeve, Appleton; William M. Wright, and Mrs. James P. Buchanan, Neenah.

Second Term
Mrs. Buchanan was re-elected to a second term as an alumni trustee. Reeve was elected by the board after serving two three-year terms as an alumni trustee.

Of the new trustees, two others have served as alumni trustees. They are Flom from 1938-44 and from 1955-61 and West, from 1951-57.

Also at the board meeting, the trustees elected as emeriti trustees, Mrs. S. F. Shattuck, Neenah, a trustee since 1920, and John Stevens, Menasha, a trustee since 1955.

All of the new trustees of the university are alumni of Lawrence or Milwaukee-Dowling College.

Flom, a 1924 graduate of Lawrence, is a retired vice president and general manager of Marathon Division of American Can Co. After retiring, he served four years as president of the Paperboard Packaging Council, Washington, D. C. He holds a masters degree from Columbia University and an honorary masters degree from Lawrence.

Firm President

Herzog is a 1938 Lawrence graduate. Named president of 3M Company of St. Paul, last summer, the appointment becomes effective today.

West, director, general counsel and secretary of Schlumberger Limited, New York City, graduated in 1932, and received a law degree in 1935 from the University of Michigan Law School.

Mrs. Siekman is the daughter of Charles S. Boyd, founder of Appleton Coated Paper Co., who was a member of the board of trustees for many years. She graduated from Lawrence in 1943 and later received a diploma from the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. She currently is president of the Lois and Charles Boyd Foundation.

Dr. Steffen graduated from Milwaukee-Dowling College in 1942. A specialist in obstetrics and gynecology, she received her medical degree from McGill University Medical School in 1945.

Society President

She is president of the Wisconsin Society of Obstetricians and Gynecology, and is a past president of the Racine County Medical Society. She has served a tour of duty aboard the hospital ship U. S. S. Horv.

Vogel, the other new alumni trustee, graduated from Lawrence in 1965, summa cum laude. He was a Mecham Scholar at the University of Chicago Law School and graduated with high honors and as a member of Law Review.

Arthur R. Remley, Neenah, was re-elected chairman of the board and will again head the executive committee.

Other members of that committee are James R. Brown, West Bend; William E. Buchanan, Frederic O. Leach and John G. Strange, Appleton; Catherine B. Cleary, Milwaukee; John R. Kimberly, John P. Reeve, Mrs. William A. Siekman, Darwin E. Smith, Mowry Smith and William M. Wright, all of Neenah.

Huachuca, Ariz. He said he received a direct commission as a captain in the medical service corps.

His case load after six weeks on the staff is between 15 and 20 individuals, families and married couples. It is growing. "My job is out-patient treatment of people and families with various degrees of problems."

He doesn't favor any specific treatment philosophy and handles the problems which come up as "best as I can." Generally Borchardt said he uses a psycho-social approach that looks at the individual and problems against the environment he lives in and the background he came from. His special area of interest is adolescents, and as time goes along he envisions setting up some group therapy programs for them.

Before his army service, Borchardt worked for the State Department of Corrections in the men's prison at Waupun. He got a bachelor's degree from Stevens Point State University and a master's from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee in 1967.

He is paid $11,400 a year to start. It will increase to $12,100 next spring.

National Food's Stamp Policies Ruled Illegal

MADISON (AP)—Dane County Circuit Judge William C. Sachtjen ruled Friday a stamp plan used by National Food Stores, Inc., is illegal.

Under the plan, National customers are entitled to a "bonus shield" for each purchase over $5 in addition to the normal number of stamps. Upon presentation of 10 to 41 shields, the customer receives 40 to 600 extra stamps.

The company brought action against the Bureau of Consumer Protection and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture to test the constitutionality of state laws prohibiting the plan.

Sachtjen said laws applying to the plan require that stamps to the plan require that stamps be redeemable in cash, have a stated cash value on their face and be redeemable in quantities of 25 cents or more.

Social Agencies Get Federal Help

BY BILL HURRLE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Local social service agencies now have the option to expand services without putting additional burdens on the Community Chest. Personal activity program of work adjustment services had already done so.

A federal program which grants money directly to local programs went into effect at the end of August. Norman Whitford, Winnebago County Social Services director, said it would enable his department to purchase care and services from private agencies, if they cared to sell them.

Federal funds would pay 85 per cent of the costs and the county and state would divide the difference. The county would pay $8.25 of every $100. Whitford said he has $10,000 budgeted for 1971 so the county could take advantage of the programs.

No Local Effort

Wesley Urch, Neenah-Menasha Community Chest director, said the program would not have any effect on the chest's need for funds. Rules governing the program make it clear that a fast shuffle, substituting federal money for local, is not allowed. A program must either serve more people or serve people better.

Whitford said he is not interested in just changing the financial base of existing programs. "We can't complain about tax expenses and replace privately funded agencies with federally funded ones at the same time."

Thirty days ago Urch released $1,385 in seed money to the Social Service Department which used the funds to get federal and state money. "Ideally the seed money would come from the county board, not private sources," said Duane Kelso, director of work adjustment services.

Chest Relief

Kelso said that the new program gave relief to a strained Community Chest. Under the old grant system, costs were split 60 per cent local and the rest state and federal.

The pilot program takes 12 post-school mentally retarded people for four hours a day. It has some babysitting aspects, but gives the retarded a chance to socialize and keeps their training in personal care up to the best possible levels. Kelso projected a program serving 35 such people by 1985.

"I'm very pleased with it. The chief benefit is that it allows expansion of day care programs without leaning on local sources of support," Kelso said. He plans to make application for a work activity program next that cares for mentally handicapped who are not able to compete for jobs but who can do productive work in sheltered workshops.

Only Program

Whitford said this was the only program funded so far by the state. In the next biennium budget the state is beefing up the number of programs service agencies might want to take advantage of: day care centers for children, foster care, services to prevent or reduce dependency, aid to unwed mothers, homemaker services and aid to reunite families. The interest would put some new burdens on chest-supported agencies. They would have to develop charges for services and comply with federal reporting requirements.

Milwaukee County and the Milwaukee County United Fund are into a large program under the system. Whitford said. The county purchases foster care and adoptive services and takes care of unwed mothers using private agencies.

More Staff For Library Unlikely

NEENAH — It took two hours, but the finance committee shaved $9,500 from the library's 1971 budget request of $19,242 for next year's operation and capital outlay.

Although the cut won't be final until Mayor Roman V. Hauser starts taking his final look at budget requests next week, the mayor indicated that a request for a 10th full-time person probably would be eliminated.

Additional personnel has been the one area where Hauser and the finance committee have been trying to keep new spending to a minimum.

William Dresser, speaking for the library board, pointed out that "Since 1963, the staff has been cut by two part-time employees."

He asked that if the person could not be put on for the full year, which would add about $8,000 to the budget, "Could you leave in a part of it so we could add the person perhaps at mid-year or later?"

Other items cut included a $500 per year film service and $700 to expand and display a picture rental program.

With the cuts, the budget stands at an increase of about 6 per cent over the $171,892 budgeted for the current year.

Police & Fire Beat

Joyce E. Dobeck, 34, 705 E. Cecil St., Neenah, forfeited $29 Friday on a charge of public intoxication. Appleton police arrested her Tuesday after an incident in the 700 block of W. College Avenue.

Clifford Niemuth, 24, Oshkosh, who took two stereo tapes from the Treasure Island store last Saturday, pleaded guilty Friday to a shoplifting charge. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer fined him $50 and costs.

Court proceedings for Antonio Rangle, 21, 600 1/2 W. College Ave., were continued to Friday when he appeared on a charge of furnishing beer to minors. Appleton detectives charge that Rangle gave beer to seven juveniles, ages 13 through 16, at his apartment Sunday. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set bail at $100.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set a jury trial for Thursday in the disorderly conduct case of Rafael Martinez, 35, route 2, Shiocton, at the request of an attorney Friday. Martinez, who was not present in court, pleaded innocent to the count, through the lawyer. He allegedly struck a patron in Carpenter's Bar in Shiocton on Wednesday.

Students Bid For Education Finance Unit

Fox Valley Youths Outline Program to Help State Aids Unit

MADISON — A student advisory committee formed recently to meet with the state Higher Educational Aids Board reported Friday on its program and by-laws and requested they be approved by the state board.

The 12-member ad hoc committee is headed by William Baer, a Lawrence University student. Other members include Donald Clouthier, St. Norbert College and Robert Strong, Oshkosh State University.

The group, which will be expanded to 16 members representing the state's public and private institutions of higher education, asked to be involved in the decision-making process of the state board establishing policy and administering a variety of programs of financial aid for Wisconsin students.

Work Plan

In addition to writing by-laws the student unit outlined a work program for itself that includes three studies. These are in addition to a study initiated to determine the extent students are involved in forming financial aid policy on the state's campuses.

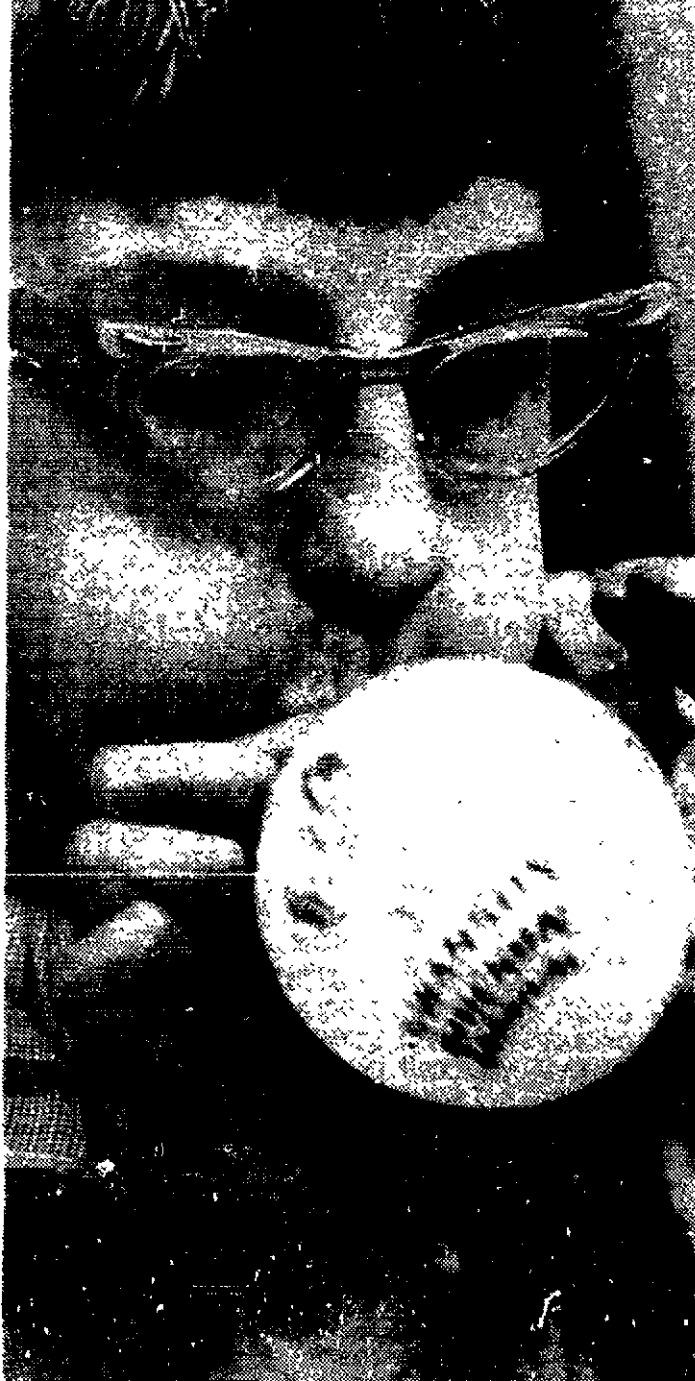

The students proposed they study criteria being used by financial aid officers in making awards; the extent of student employment during the summer and school year; and to re-evaluate student budgets to determine what it costs students to attend school.

Aid From Surveys

Information from the surveys would relate directly to policies established by the aids board. The board reviews reasonable expenses for attending college, sets definitions on what students can and should earn to contribute to their own education and in a remote way oversees the way in which financial aid programs are administered.

The student polls could provide usable information, that the group does not have, according to Mrs. Rylla Bosshard.

The student advisory committee, if approved, would be one of few formal permanent student groups involved in state government.

Rural Development Council Organized

Laymen Tackle Planning Problems

Laymen were tossed the job of combating better-sketched planning Friday with the start of an Outagamie Rural-Urban Development Council.

A nucleus of eight members was appointed to organize the unit which will include citizens, technical advisers, and government representatives.

The members of the steering committee are, Joe Kasperek, route 1, Black Creek, chairman; Stephen Jonland, Appleton, Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce; Leonard Warner, Appleton; Fox Valley Technical Institute; Alice L. Schultz, Appleton, Outagamie County home economist; Russell Luckow, Appleton, Outagamie County agricultural agent; Vernon Geiger, Appleton, Outagamie County soil conservationist; George Berger, Appleton, Farmers Home Administration administrator; and Joe Rickert, Appleton, office manager of the Outagamie County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

County Problems

Knotty county problems such as urban development, highway planning, zoning and park and resource guidance may be tackled by the organization.

"Life in the Country," a Nixon Administration task force report, has spurred the start of similar councils throughout the state. A committee started Thursday in Oshkosh to organize the Winnebago County Rural-Urban Development Council. V. W. Peroutky, county agricultural agent, is guiding its development.

Technical representatives were invited to aid in formation of the Outagamie unit by Russell Luckow, Outagamie County agricultural agent, acting for the University of Wisconsin extension service.

"We see great support developing for this type of thing from planning groups," said R. J. Schaefer, community resource development leader of the University of Wisconsin extension service.

New Zoning

"This is not a program that is handed down from above," he emphasized. Council size and make-up can vary. Councils often have aided adjoining counties to solve common problems.

"I can see, in this county, a tremendous need for new zoning," said Vernon Geiger. Outagamie County soil conservationist.

He said ill-planned urbanization could cause severe problems. "We need some tremendous help out there."

Highways become clogged because of poor planning, according to Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioner.

"Our county trunk highways should not be residential streets," he charged. School buses picking up children along county highways have backed traffic into lines two miles long.

"We've got a lot of chiefs, what we need are Indians," said Joe Kasperek, chairman of the county agriculture committee. He told the group laymen must be involved in the council. "We're snowed under with chiefs."

He warned against creating a group which simply would make plans. "We've got planning by the ton but there's nobody that dares put it into action."

7 Face Charges After Drug Raid

MADISON (AP)—Three Oshkosh men and four persons from Sheboygan have been arrested in a crackdown against illegal drug trafficking, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's office announced today.

The arrests boosted to 50 the number of persons taken into custody in nine counties during the past week on charges of illegal drug activities, the attorney general said.

Warren identified the three persons arrested in Oshkosh as Stephen D. Young, 22, Thomas E. Jones, 20, and Warren A. Mittelstadt, 23.

The four persons arrested in Sheboygan in connection with an alleged drug operation between Sheboygan and Fond du Lac were not identified.

Warren said three persons were still being sought in Sheboygan County and one in Fond du Lac County.

Warren said Young, at the time of his arrest, was free from jail on bail pending trial on a charge of selling a dangerous drug after being arrested July 21 in a major crackdown on a drug ring operating out of Oshkosh.

The newest charge against Young, Warren said, involved sale of marijuana.

Informer Aids Police

Appleton Man Faces Marijuana Sales Count

A 21-year-old Appleton man, who police allege furnished marijuana to an informer on Oct. 11, was bound over on the felony charge Friday after a preliminary hearing before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Richard Geborek, 121 N. Drew St., will enter a plea in County Court, before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer later. Keller returned him to the county jail on $1,500 bond.

The informer, a 21-year-old Combined Locks man who once lived in the same house with Geborek, testified that at his (the informer's) request, Geborek phoned a supplier the afternoon of Oct. 11 to see if marijuana was available. This took place at the N. Drew Street address.

Marked Money

The informer testified he gave Geborek $5 in marked money to make the purchase from the other party after determining the supplier was home and would be coming over. The two went to a nearby tavern and when they came out, noticed the third party pull out from a driveway at the Drew Street dwelling and head their way along an alley in back of the tavern.

In the alley, the informer testified, the driver of the car gave what was later found to be marijuana, to Geborek. The informer said Geborek gave the material, contained in a plastic bag, to him, after holding it for a short time. The informer turned the material over to a city detective a short time later, after phoning to meet at a prearranged place.

Tests at the police station and the State Crime Laboratory in Madison proved the substance was marijuana. A defense attorney stipulated to those findings Friday, and waived testimony from a lab chemist.

Defense Argument

The defense attorney argued that his client was "set up" by the transaction, leveling the statement at the informer during cross examination. He questioned how the informer, who barely knew Geborek, could be so sure that the second man could locate the drug.

The informer said that once before, he had tried to get Geborek to supply him with marijuana, and Geborek said he might be able to get it from someone in front of a downtown department store. In addition, the informer said, he had heard Geborek and another man discuss a party they attended where drugs were supposed to have been used.

Entrapment Charged

In his closing argument, the defense argued there was no statutory proof of possession of the drug by his client, and secondly, the incident of the exchange constituted a "clear case" of entrapment.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Joel Seymour, answering those allegations, held the testimony revealed Geborek had the plastic bag "at least a couple of minutes in duration. He (the informer) merely provided the funds and the defendant took it from there."

James Lambie, 19, 221 Plummer Ave., Neenah, also will have a preliminary hearing Friday morning before Judge Keller on two counts of selling dangerous drugs to the informer.

Boy Who Led Police Chase Sentenced

A jail sentence, stiff fine and suspension of driving privileges were ordered Friday for a 17-year-old Appleton boy who led police on a high speed chase early Oct. 1.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer sentenced Clayton Short, 2637 Brookdale Court, to the county jail for 15 days for eluding police. The chase started downtown, wound through the city's north side, and ended 10 miles north of Appleton, when the auto Short was driving left Meade Street where it meets County Trunk J.

A policeman received a minor injury and a squad car was demolished in the chase.

Schaefer suspended Short's driver's license for a total of 120 days for eluding the police driving without a license. He levied fines totaling $170 and costs on the no driver's license count, and additional charges of reckless driving and speeding. Short will attend the next traffic safety school.

Police said that he took an auto belonging to James R. Weiss, 1218 E. Glendale Ave. from a north side parking lot just prior to the chase.

Thompson Could be Froehlich's Toughest Challenger

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich faces what may be his toughest challenger at the polls in Appleton Ald. Glenn Thompson since his election to the Assembly in 1964.

First Assembly District voters will not be able to say they do not have a choice when they go to vote.

Froehlich's conservatism has been made a state-wide campaign issue by the Democrats. Thompson, far from being considered a "radical" still offers a startling contrast to the views of the Assembly speaker.

Despite the differences in philosophy between the two, there have been few confrontations during the campaign, with both candidates mainly relying on their positions on the council and assembly to reach the public.

Glenn Thompson

Harold Froehlich

Both agree that taxes are one of the main issues, if not the main issue.

Froehlich called for allowing local communities to impose a "piggyback" sales and income taxes to ease the property tax burden. "We must seriously consider how much funding the state will do for local units of government," Froehlich said. He agreed the state has a responsibility to aid local governments "but how far do we go?" he asked.

"We must allow local government to raise these taxes and then keep the state budget increases within the economic rate of growth," Froehlich contended.

Thompson said he admitted it would be "hard to do something about taxes" but felt one place to start would be the adoption of an relief annual state budget. Along with this, he said, would be tax relief for the elderly. "This would be my goal the first year," Thompson said.

He said he did not see how the state could control spending with its two-year budgets. "Appleton can't work with a one-year budget," he said.

He contended that tax relief for the elderly could be accomplished through better distribution of state aids as proposed in the revised Tarr Task Force recommendations.

While taxes are a major point, Froehlich has built much of his campaign on the law and order issue, particularly campus unrest.

The GOP leader called for life imprisonment without eligibility for parole for anyone convicted of bombings, and for state financed law enforcement training and election of federal judges.

He said "we should end the idea of awarding practicing politicians with judgeships." He made specific reference to Federal Judge John Doyle and said "When they get as far out of line as Doyle, we should get rid of him." Froehlich charged "The problem of law enforcement is the judiciary."

He also called for the limiting of the size of the Madison campus of the university and also limiting the enrollments at the Oshkosh and White-water campuses. "Those campuses are as big as those cities can afford," Froehlich said.

Approach Wrong

Thompson agreed there was a problem with campus disorders but felt the approach has been wrong. "I have a son in college and I can understand some of their problems," Thompson said. "I don't think the politicians understand them."

He said this did not mean violence should be permitted. "We must solve the problem before the violence occurs,"

Thompson said. "Creating a police state will not solve the problem." He agreed that strict measures were needed to halt bombings. "A bomb is much worse than a gun," Thompson said.

He also called for better enforcement of drug laws, particularly where it involves the "pushers." However, Thompson said the problem of the drug user should be solved by "ways other than by putting them in jail."

Local Action

Both Froehlich and Thompson feel existing antipollution laws are adequate but that better enforcement is needed. Froehlich said the problem is the lack of trained personnel to enforce the law.

Thompson called for more action at the local level. He called for a sewer use tax on anything above a two-family dwelling to help finance treatment plant improvements. He also called for retroactive federal assistance on treatment plant construction.

Thompson termed the Tri-County Expressway the "number one goal" of the district. This is even more
